

GC schools remain closed

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Student attendance has been ruled out for this week by Supt. B.J. Davis, whose visible teachers numbered 18 Monday and an estimated 10 to 13 Wednesday at semester-opening faculty workshops.

Negotiations and daily school postponements continue; the latest bargaining session lasted from 4 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. Wednesday, with no progress reported.

A statement issued today by Teachers Local 743 emphasized that the local "does not wish to place the district further in debt. Our proposals reflect that position and have been fair, responsible and reasonable."

Most school employees have been laid off, leaving the buildings nearly empty, and the Board of Education last night voted to end about 400 absent teachers' medical insurance Aug. 31.

Secretaries and custodians objected last night to being laid off, saying they are willing to work and have backlogs of tasks to perform.

"Our backs are against the wall" financially, a school official commented. "We have no wish to penalize the secretaries or custodians, who have been very cooperative, but we just don't have the money" to employ them while schools are closed, he added.

Many staff members worked extremely hard during the summer to help convert the system from 18 to 12 schools, the board acknowledged; now, some will lose work and pay although they want to work.

The dispute with teachers could be a long one, it was indicated. The board last night directed Davis to adhere exactly to the existing school calendar, with the one exception: School opening plans will be made on a daily basis, depending on whether it appears the staffing will be sufficient to assure student safety.

It will be decided tomorrow morning, for example, whether students should report next Monday, Aug. 29. Further postponements are said to be likely until there is a 1983-84 agreement with teachers.

Absent teachers' insurance being cancelled

No formal strike has been called; the fall term is being delayed by the non-attendance of most of the 419 active teachers; another 129 are on honorable dismissal (of 182 dismissed, 63 were recalled).

Teachers originally were to report Aug. 22, with pupils beginning classes Aug. 23.

After the Local 743 and District Nine bargaining teams met early Wednesday evening, both sides said they were no closer to agreeing on the provisions of a pact for the 1983-84 school year. There has been no discussion of a multi-year agreement.

Negotiators' proposals are said to be "close" on the proposed size of classes, but far apart on actions related to that issue. The difference:

The union wants dismissed teachers called back before students report, urging that at least 20 of the 129 still-dismissed group be rehired. The district has pledged to adjust class size by faculty transfers and rehiring on the sixth day of pupil attendance, coping with any first-week crowding by summoning substitute teachers.

Estimates of how many students are ready to attend vary widely. Some feel that the enrollment will be larger than that indicated by projections made in March. Others say there probably was a net enrollment loss from families moving away and moving here during the summer.

The basic outlook has been for 9,500 students, including 2,900 at the combined Granite City High School.

Once teachers are rehired, they are on the 1983-84 payroll regardless of the number of children available to be taught.

Once teachers are dismissed and their recall period has elapsed (the length of this period is at least one year but is being negotiated), they and their pay levels may be unattractive to both

Granite City and distant school systems. The dismissed instructors would be competing with new and relatively lower-paid teaching applicants.

Local 743 says it would forego raises in exchange for guaranteed callbacks. But otherwise, at this point, it wants an increase in the salary schedule. The district cut most administrators' pay 10 percent, effective in July 1983, and has been proposing salary cuts for teachers.

Officers of the local said this week they are not seeking "money." School (Continued on Page 11)

Link class size, bankruptcy concern

Granite City teachers' $26,239 average pay would rank District Nine as the "third highest state" in a national survey of faculty pay by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, the district's negotiating team said last night.

It was the first commentary by the team, which says it is distressed over the public's perception of issues in this week's school dispute.

School officials are just as interested, or more so, than anyone else in keeping class size within reason, they said; the real issue now is to keep the district out of bankruptcy, they added.

"Horror stories" making the rounds about class size are untrue, the negotiators said; they are speaking out to set the record straight.

With the board and administration substantially the same as it is now for a number of past years, the district has proven its consistent concern for class size, the team said. It related that the board some time ago offered to review any classes where the count is more than 35 in kindergarten and in the first three grades and 37 in other grades.

Although these sizes are not greatly different from those proposed by Local 743, rigid rather than flexible implementation could force needless hiring, bankrupting the schools, it was asserted.

The cost of adding 20 teachers, a goal of the local, is estimated at more than $500,000 when taking all factors into account, officials said. The negotiators added that when (Continued on Page 12)

GC tax levy set at $2.8 million

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler used his own property tax bill to show the coming effect of the city's new $2.8 million tax levy approved Tuesday night.

The mayor later cast the deciding vote for the levy, expected to increase city property taxes about 10 percent.

Schuler said his real estate taxes were $1,600 this year with about 25 percent of that amount, or $400, going to the city. The mayor expects the new levy to increase his next year's tax bill by approximately $40.

The new tax rate is estimated to be about $1.51 per $100 assessed valuation. The current rate is $1.37 per $100. The assessed valuation of a home is intended to be one third of its market value.

In defending the 14-cent tax rate increase, the mayor said $350,000 from the levy will go to support a total $1 million sewer repair project possible through the new levy, in combination with three federal grants.

In the council vote following the mayor's remarks, five of the 11 aldermen present turned down the levy. Seven others supporting the levy needed the mayor's eight vote for a majority consensus on the council's 14-member board needed to pass the ordinance.

In favor of the levy were aldermen: First Ward, Everett Morlen and Casmer Skubish; Second Ward, Sam Whitmer and Fred "Pat" Schuman; Third Ward, Carl Kittel and Paul Fisk; and Fourth Ward, Phillip Miller.

Opposing the ordinance were: Fourth Ward, Sharon Perjak; Fifth Ward, Jake Varadian; Sixth Ward, Stephen Sallich and Woodrow Moad; and Seventh Ward, Michael Modrusz. Aldermen Lloyd Bailey and Paul Bowler were absent. At the first levy vote last week, Bailey had supported the new rate. Bowler was not present for either vote due to work conflicts.

With the exception of Alderman Stephen Sallich, none of the opposing aldermen commented on the levy Tuesday night. (Continued on Page 12)

Treatment plan worries Echols

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
of the Press-Record

"The state has had no dealings with Granite, like we have, and getting involved with Granite City cured me like a country ham," Mayor Tyrone Echols told the Venice City Council Tuesday night in expressing his reservations about a state plan to link Venice and the region to Granite City's sewage treatment plant.

"That business with the ambulance service did me in," Echols added.

Proposed regionalization of sewage treatment at a single facility and the status of a grant for the Lansdowne Project will be discussed by Richard Carlson, director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, at a meeting starting at 2 p.m. Monday at the Madison Fire Station, 1529 Third St., Madison.

Mayor Echols Tuesday night that the state IEPA director will be here to meet with members of the Advisory Committee for the Review and Update of the Lansdowne Sewer Study.

Monday's session will be the final meeting of the review board before a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 26, also set to take place at the Madison Fire Station.

Mayor Echols said the state IEPA director will be here to "explain the reasons for their decision." He was referring to a recent report that the IEPA is favoring a proposal to abandon the Lansdowne Sewer Treatment (Continued on Page 12)

2 hurt in plane crash

By PAT HAYLUTZ
for the Press-Record

Federal Aviation Administration officials Monday tentatively cited inclement weather and pilot inexperience as the cause of the crash of a Granite City man's private plane in Canton, Minn., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crumbley, 2201 Lynch Ave., sustained head injuries when their single-engine plane apparently snapped off the top strand of a barbed wire fence, hit a tree and landed in a Canton soybean field.

Crumbley, 46, is in the neuro-intensive care unit at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn., and is listed in critical condition. The 48-year-old Mrs. Crumbley's condition is labeled as fair.

According to Fillmore County Sheriff Don Gudmundson, Crumbley had received his pilot's license within the last few months, and his inexperience hampered his attempts to fly in the dense fog. "He was not a real experienced pilot," Gudmundson stated.

Gudmundson also indicated that Crumbley had not filed a flight plan, so the origin of the flight is still unknown. The Crumbleys were believed destined for the Rochester Municipal Airport, after which they were to make a trip to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, where Mrs. Crumbley has been receiving monthly treatments.

Two towns were traveling to Minneapolis on U.S. 52 at 1:10 a.m. when they heard something snap overhead and crash into a nearby soybean field. When they located the site of the wreck, they found Crumbley still strapped in his seat, which was upside-down on top of the wreckage.

Mrs. Crumbley was thrown approximately 20 feet from the accident and she also was still strapped in her seat. Joseph Griffin, an investigator for the FAA, determined the tentative cause of the crash Monday, but indicated that the matter is still under investigation until he can speak with the Crumbleys.

Crumbley is employed as a engineer plant operator at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

DOWNTOWN SHORTCUT. A tractor trailer loaded with steel coils makes the turn from 20th Street to Niedringhaus Avenue as it enters the downtown area. A city truck route ordinance prohibits trucks from using the business district as a short-cut to Route 3. At a special council session Wednesday, Alderman Jake Varadian suggested the city investigate the elimination of the recognized downtown routes along 20th and 18th streets and, instead, move truck traffic down 16th Street.

Cable TV hiked $1

Granite City cable TV subscribers will have a $1 rate increase in their basic service bill effective Sept. 1.

The agreement will increase the basic fee from $7 to $8 monthly.

The Granite City Council approved the cable ordinance amendment on an 11-1 vote at Tuesday night's regular meeting after more than two years of debate with South-Western Cable TV, Inc., of Maryville.

Sixth Ward Alderman Woodrow Moad voted against the revised contract. Aldermen Paul Ray Bowler and Lloyd Bailly were not in attendance.

The agreement averts an arbitration hearing requested earlier by the cable company. According to a provision in the cable ordinance, the company may require such a hearing when the city and cable company cannot agree on basic rate fees.

The new pact with South-Western gives the city three percent of the firm's gross revenues from pay and advertising income, along with three percent of the basic fee revenues currently received.

The $8.50 fee for each of the Home Box Office and The Movie Channel services will not be affected.

Collinsville agreed to the $1 increase earlier this year. South-Western had sought a $2 increase from both Collinsville and Granite City, rather than the lesser $1 hike.

Last May, the city refused to give up its right to regulate the basic fee charges.

New laws against sexual harassment

Governor James R. Thompson has approved legislation that broadens sexual harassment laws in Illinois by adding two new classifications to the Illinois Human Rights Act.

"Government has a responsibility to protect its citizens from discrimination and harassment of any kind at any place. These new laws will take more strides in that effort, an effort that should be ongoing and one that should be diligently patrolled," the governor said.

Thompson said he approved House Bills 235 and 422, measures that make on-the-job sexual harassment a civil rights violation and protect college students from sexual harassment from university teachers and administrators.

Under HB 235, the Human Rights Department will have the power to conduct hearings to investigate steps taken to prevent on-the-job sexual harassment. It also enacts new state statutes that apply to private business the way the Governor's 1980 Executive Order prohibits sexual harassment in Illinois state government.

HB 422 expands protection against sexual harassment for students at public and private universities in Illinois. Filing procedures and other steps to protect alleged violations of this Human Rights Act amendment are included in the measure.

Both bills take effect Jan. 1, 1984.

In other legislative matters, the governor signed HB 291 that enables state government agencies to convert positions normally held by one person into a job that two people share. The job-sharing bill is aimed at providing employment for persons, such as parents or those returning to school, who normally could not work full-time. It is effective immediately.

Other measures the Governor signed include:

—HB 1958, which raises fees the Department of Public Health charges to obtain documents through the State Office of Vital Records. Funds from the fee hike will be used to upgrade the computerized vital records system. Birth certificate search costs will go to $5 from $3. Fees for after-adoption record requests, corrections and delayed birth certificate filings will be raised to $10 from $5. It takes effect Jan. 1, 1984.

—HB 1045, legislation that requires sanitary facilities and drinking water be made available for agriculture crews and migrant farm workers. Under the bill, which was sponsored by Representative Breslin and Senators William Marovitz of Chicago and Kenneth Hall of East St. Louis, crews of 10 workers or more must have access to sanitation and drinking facilities that are no more than 800 feet from the field. Crews smaller than 10 workers should be able to reach those facilities within five minutes or be within a half-mile of them. Regulations under the bill, which takes effect July 1, 1984, will be enforced by the Department of Public Health.

Illinois taste test at St. Clair Square

Shoppers can "Take the Illinois Taste Test" and become directly involved in market research for Illinois food companies Wednesday, Aug. 31, and Thursday, Sept. 1, at St. Clair Square in Fairview Heights.

The taste test is part of an Agriculture exhibit, "Food and You," located in the lower level center court near J. C. Penney. Personnel from the Illinois Department of Agriculture and the Madison and St. Clair County Farm Bureau Women's Committees will be staffing the exhibit from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. each day.

Persons visiting the test market will sample foods of charge, then fill out a brief product evaluation form. In this way, patrons get a taste of Illinois food products while aiding companies in determining the marketability of those same items.

"Food and You" includes another Department of Agriculture display, "Cor-nucopia — Tapping the Treasure of Corn," showing the many products containing corn that now sit in America's kitchen cupboards as well as many non-edible industrial products. Also included is "Farming and Where the Grocery Dollar Goes," sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau, "Guidelines to Good Eating and Nutrition," sponsored by the St. Louis District Dairy Council and the University of Illinois' "The Science of Nutrition and Human Development."

Ranging from low-salt snack wafers, pork ribs and pizza to an orange drink with a projected five-year shelf life, products from companies belonging to the Illinois Food Expo will be evaluated during the two-day "Take the Illinois Taste Test." To become a member of the Illinois Food Expo, a company must be headquartered in Illinois or process or grow the actual product within the state, according to Brenda Eden of the Illinois Department of Agriculture's Division of Marketing.

The taste test will involve 11 products representing nine different food companies. Consumer feedback acquired will result in new, more useful research reports for the makers of Illinois food products and, ultimately, more jobs and consumer benefits for Illinois citizens.

The exhibition is designed to build a bridge between consumers and the agricultural community. It created markets for processed Illinois food products result not only in an increased demand for Illinois' raw agricultural commodities but a better financial environment for farmers, transporters, retailers and consumers as well.

The companies will use the results to make advertising decisions, plan and adjust sales campaigns and make production decisions.

Basically, the research lets the companies know what consumers want at different times and in different geographical areas. They produce improved products and discover new selling points and ultimately more agricultural products are used.

Both "Take the Illinois Taste Test" and "Cornucopia" were exhibits at the 1983 Illinois State Fair August 11 to 21 and are used in various promotional and educational displays throughout the year.

Human Behavior course at BAC gaining popularity

Understanding human behavior seems to be a popular pursuit. Enrollment in Belleville Area College's telecourse by that name is any indication.

After offering the course for five consecutive semesters, the enrollment still is increasing, said BAC psychology instructor and mentor for the course, Dr. Bobby Poe.

"All the students who have taken the course seem to be well pleased," he said. "Grade-wise they seem to do very well and perform a little bit better than their counterparts on campus."

The course introduces facts and scientific principles of psycho-physical activity in humans. The roles of heredity and environment in the development of behavior are discussed. Other topics include maturation, sensory processes, perception, motivation, learning, remembering, emotions, adjustment and maladjustment.

The narrator of the tapes uses a number of clips from unusual and interesting movies, many of which are the same as used in the classes held at the college's campus, Poe said.

"To some extent the TV tapes may not go into depth on certain topics," he said. "The book is really the main diet for the course. Students don't hear anything in the lectures that is not explained in more detail in the book. Students like the book."

Students in the course get early and frequent feedback on their progress in the course, Dr. Poe said. They are required to mail in take-home tests about every two weeks. He tries to grade these quickly and return them as soon as possible. He has found this system works so well, he has begun using more take-home tests in the courses he teaches on campus.

The tests also give him a chance to have contact with the students.

"I always try to write some comments on their tests so they know I'm really here," Poe said. He only sees most students for mid-term and final exams, which are held on campus. He encourages them to stop by during his office hours.

Dr. Poe is starting his 15th year as an instructor at BAC. He teaches general psychology, social psychology and educational psychology.

He received his master's degree and doctorate in counseling psychology from East Texas State University. He taught in public schools, worked as a school principal and was a guidance counselor before coming to BAC.

He and his wife, Gynnda, have three children. They live in Belleville.

"Understanding Human Behavior" will air at 6:15 a.m. Wednesdays and Fridays and will be repeated at 12:30 p.m. the same days on Channel 9. Videotapes will be available in libraries at the college's Belleville campus and Granite City Center and in the Granite City Public Library.

Tuition for the three-hour course is $63 or $21 per credit hour. There also is a $20 TV course fee.

Other TV courses to be offered this fall include "Making It Count" and introduction to data processing; "Earth, Sea and Sky," an introduction to earth science; "An Invitation to Fly: Basics for the Private Pilot," a course that serves as ground school and prepares students to take the Federal Aviation Administration written examination; "U.S. History 1877," "Growing Years," a child development course and "The Home Gardener," a horticulture course.

For more information or to register, students may call the telecourse hotline, 1-255-2700, extension 200. Registrations will be accepted now through Thursday, Sept. 15.

Aluminum recycling now 32 cents a pound

Area recyclers will now receive 32 cents for each pound of recyclable aluminum cans turned in at the area reclamation centers sponsored by Container Recovery Corporation (CRC) and St. Louis metropolitan area Anheuser-Busch, Inc. distributors. The announcement was made by Ronald E. Smiley, CRC manager of marketing and wholesaler operations.

"This price for recyclable aluminum cans is as high as it has been for some time," Smiley said. "The aluminum market is rebounding strongly throughout the nation, and this is the reason for this major price increase," he explained.

CRC permanent and mobile-unit reclamation centers are located in the city of St. Louis, St. Louis County, Jefferson County, St. Charles County and in the Metro-East area, including Granite City.

CRC collected more than 169 million pounds of aluminum in 1982. CRC operates in 44 states and involves more than 500 Anheuser-Busch distributors nationwide.

The Granite City center is located in Nameoki Village Shopping Center and is open from 9 a.m. to noon Mondays and Wednesdays and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays.

TWO ARE ARRESTED

David A. Lane, 21, of 127 Holiday Mobile Homes and Damon M. Horvath, 21, Rural Route One, were charged with disorderly conduct last week after police responded to a disturbance report at Spring and Ball avenues. Each was freed on $50 bail.

The Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation cooperated with the sheriff in the investigation of rural area activities.

The two were questioned by Glen Carbon police about the other burglaries, but a spokesman Wednesday said that there is no indication at this time that the two were involved in the other crimes.

Police said a burglary occurred Tuesday night at a home in the subdivision. Police have said they believe a burglary ring or rings might be operating in the subdivision.

Police officers were on routine patrol when they saw two black youths approach the subdivision on foot early Sunday. One youth was carrying a flashlight and the other was holding a shiny object, police said.

The police parked near a wooded area of the subdivision and saw the two enter one car and take something. They then ran into the woods, police said.

The youths, but came out after police spotted them and fired a warning shot in the air. The two allegedly fled.

Police said a burglary occurred Tuesday night at a home in the subdivision. Police have said they believe a burglary ring or rings might be operating in the subdivision.

Police officers were on routine patrol when they saw two black youths approach the subdivision on foot early Sunday. One youth was carrying a flashlight and the other was holding a shiny object, police said.

The police parked near a wooded area of the subdivision and saw the two enter one car and take something. They then ran into the woods, police said.

The youths, but came out after police spotted them and fired a warning shot in the air. The two allegedly fled.

Burglaries Sunday night in the subdivision.

The two were questioned by Glen Carbon police about the other burglaries, but a spokesman Wednesday said that there is no indication at this time that the two were involved in the other crimes.

DISCUSSING CONSERVATION. David Harper, wildlife manager for the Illinois Department of Conservation office in Alton, a veteran of 23 years in the field, answers questions after presenting the slide presentation "Where Have All the Wildlife Gone?" for members of area garden clubs meeting at the Harold Brown Recreation Center.

DEREGULATE 543

"TREE EXPERTS"

Due to legislation passed this year by the General Assembly and signed by the governor, the state of Illinois no longer is regulating tree experts.

It is only the third occupational group to be deregulated since the Department of Registration and Education (DRE) was established in 1917 to handle the licensing and statutory enforcement of certain occupations and professions.

"There was some question whether tree experts, as defined by law, needed to be regulated in order to protect the public health or welfare," DRE Director Gary L. Clayton explained.

The vote on House Bill 1142 in the House was 104-9; the Senate vote was 56-0.

Tree experts had been scheduled for deregulation on Dec. 31, 1980, under the state's "Sunset Act."

The law defines a tree expert as "any person who, for profit, diagnoses the condition of shade or ornamental trees and recommends or supervises the treatment of such trees, or in any manner treats any such trees, by feeding or fertilizing, or by pruning, trimming, bracing, treating cavities or other methods, or protects or attempts to protect any such trees from damage by such insects or disease by spraying or any other method."

The bill, as PA 83-35, became effective July 27. On that date there were 343 tree experts licensed by DRE.

'CYCLIST INJURED

ON NIEDRINGHAUS

Courtland W. Bosworth, 53, of 1657 Fourth St., Madison, sustained an injury during the weekend when the motorcycle he was riding north on Delmar Avenue reportedly turned left into the path of an auto, eastbound on Niedringhaus Avenue.

Bosworth was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by his family for treatment. He was charged with violation of classification and is to appear in court Sept. 23.

Gardenaires, Garden Study, Terrace, and Thorngate. President Mrs. B.C. O'Neill welcomed the guests and recognized Mrs. Virginia Kaufhold, Belleville, director of District 1 Garden Clubs of Illinois as a special guest.

Introduced by Mrs. George Knapp, the guest speakers discussed the habits of bluebirds and explained the constructions of man-made homes for the birds.

After the invocation by Mrs. Charles Gandoria and a potluck luncheon, featured speaker David Harper, Wildlife Manager of the Illinois Department of Conservation, spoke on the topic, "Where Has All The Wildlife Gone?" His slide presentation and remarks dealt with the dwindling habitat for wildlife in the state and efforts of the Department of Conservation to preserve natural habitats.

PAUL HALBERT, General Manager GARY SCHNEIDER, Editor

Leadership by fourth generation

Congratulations are in order for Editor Stephen A. Cousley, new president and publisher of the Alton Telegraph. David R. Cousley, newly-named advertising director and corporate vice president and secretary, and Paul S. Cousley, who is retiring as publisher after 54 full-time years with the Telegraph but will remain a consultant, editor emeritus and publisher emeritus.

A governmental watchdog in Alton and Madison County for much of two centuries, the Telegraph has a long record of public service.

There has been special recognition of its coverage of community beautification, including restoration of the Lovejoy Monument, and of the newspaper's defense of press freedom during a long "legal battle for survival."

John A. Cousley, an Irish immigrant as a child, purchased control of the Telegraph in 1889. His son, Paul B. Cousley, later served as editor and publisher for many years.

The latter's son, Paul S. Cousley, was editor for an extended period, until 1970; he became publisher in 1963 when P. B. Cousley died.

Stephen and David Cousley are sons of Richard A. Cousley, first cousin of P. S. Cousley, and was the classified advertising manager for more than 40 years before retiring two years ago.

How we avoided a big tax bill

"Sorry, Boss, but I'm probably not going to come to work anymore. I just won $6,900,000 in the state lottery, you know." That potential conversation may have gone through a lot of minds up until 6:55 p.m. Aug. 20, when lotto sales for that week ended.

Five minutes later, the numbers chosen during a live television report led to the identification by Monday afternoon of three Illinoisans (from Chicago, Pekin and Joliet) as winners of $2,300,000 each. Swallowing their disappointment, the other players may wish to pin their next hopes on a trifling $1 million prize, paid out over the next 20 years.

Due to its accumulated amount, the lotto became "Pogo A" in the Quad-Cities, throughout this state, and in several other states bordering Illinois. Long lines developed, and sales last week were more than double the previous peak. Some of that interest may continue in the future.

Those who see this form of gambling as wasteful and even sinful are not pleased by the growth in its popularity. Those who view it as more or less harmless fun—and a great way to ease recession-related financial pressure—are praising Lottery Superintendent Michael Jones for his skill in administering a program that has had ups and downs in public acceptance over the years.

The deceptively easy tickets enable a person to choose any six of the numerals 1 to 40. What is not said is that the number of possible combinations is astronomical, equalled only by the odds against any one individual trying to precisely match those randomly-picked table tennis balls.

We would like to say that our non-victory was due to cruel fate, or some sort of elaborate conspiracy. We would like to ask mournfully, "Why didn't the state assign a better batch of numbers to our community?" We would like to say that we probably lost because of some technical mistake, such as using red ink to mark our selections. We would like to, but none of that is true.

Utilizing all the "lucky numbers" we could think of, we made all of the selections ourselves, exactly as we saw fit to do. There is nobody else to blame; as Pogo said, "We have seen the enemy, and he is us."

"We did everything right in order to win, except actually winning. Fortunately, hope springs eternally and we are already looking ahead to that day when we can describe—to anyone and everyone who will listen—how it feels to be a millionaire."

Public vote on pollution risk?

In deciding whether to use an automobile, the need for transportation outweighs the possibility of accident involving injury or perhaps even death. In deciding whether to smoke a cigarette, the addictive effect of nicotine may win out over the fear of contracting lung cancer or other often-fatal illness.

Now, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency seeks a collective balancing of risks and benefits from Tacoma, Washington. The nearly 150,000 residents of Tacoma have been asked whether they prefer some risk of cancer from arsenic pollution or possible closure of the copper smelting plant that has been producing the carcinogenic emissions.

The perplexing question put to Tacoma by EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus marks the first time a community has been asked to help make such a momentous decision about its environmental and economic future. Success or failure of this procedure in Tacoma may determine how officials deal with similar environmental problems elsewhere.

The stakes for Tacoma are highly significant. Operated by ARSARCO Inc., the smelting plants employs nearly 600 people and pumps an estimated $20 million a year into the local economy. It is only fair for the community to have some say in the matter.

Nevertheless, some residents of Tacoma and a number of zealous environmentalists contend that it is unfair for Ruckelshaus to seek a popular preference for jobs or health. They claim the decision should be left entirely to experts.

The experts, however, cannot agree. Although the law requires air-pollutant standards that provide "ample margins of safety to protect public health," many scientists believe there is no safe level for arsenic or any carcinogen. This means that merely decreasing arsenic emissions would provide inadequate health protection. Only closure of the plant would suffice.

On the other hand, some scientists contend that there is not a shred of evidence to indicate that arsenic emitted by the smelter ever has caused cancer. Obviously, there is no easy answer for Tacoma. But easy answers are rare in an increasingly complex society. Industrial development provides economic benefits but environmental hazards. Environmental protection provides health benefits but at an economic cost.

In asking the residents of Tacoma how safe they want to be, Ruckelshaus is all following the democratic tradition of popular participation in government. The benefits of this tradition are many. But they never have come without risk.

Press-Record readers were asked this week if they think public school teachers should be required to report to work while contract negotiations are in progress. Their comments follow.

George Tanksley, Granite City
"No, I don't think they'd have any leverage to get the (school) board to talk to them. It doesn't seem like the board wants to talk to them."

Bill Barton, Granite City
"No, I don't think any union employee should work without a contract, but I do think this should have been taken care of long ago—before the start of school."

Ron Reish, Granite City
"The contract should be negotiated long before the school season starts. They go through this every year. I do realize the only hold the teachers have is the start of the school year, though."

Julie Fitzhugh, Granite City
"Yes, because the little kids need their education and they (the teachers) are depriving the children of this. School should start on time, that should be a must."

A warning: prison is no place to live life

To the Editor:
The reason I am writing is quite simple: I want to help those who think it's cool to be the fool. I want them to realize that being in a place such as this is not what everyone thinks. I want people to know what prison is all about.
The following are my true feelings about prison life:
Prison is a place where you exchange the dignity of your name for the degradation of a number.
Prison is a place where you live from letter to letter or from visit to visit if you are lucky enough to have visitors.
Prison is a place where you learn the counting of life: you count the years, seasons, months, weeks, days, hours, minutes, seconds.
Prison is a place where you hope and pray not to die.
Prison is a place where you are lucky if you don't have to kill some fool.
Prison is a place where therapy and religion are not looked upon as beneficial in themselves—they are looked upon as beneficial in a Parole Board report.

Prison is a place where the word "freedom" can bring tears of remembrance to the eyes of the meaneast of killers.
Prison is a place where the gays are more men than some of the "men."
Prison is a place where convicts wages stand still and canteen prices rise to the sky.
Prison is a place where your ingenuity, creativity and your inventiveness rise to the surface—if your eyes are open.
Prison, where you can become mentally crippled because responsibility is stolen from you.
Prison is a place where your wealth is determined by how many boxes of smokes you own.
Prison is a place where you can hear the echo of family and friends, "I told you Sosoos."
Don't come to prison, for a life means nothing here, stay free and live.
I am quite sure that someone, somewhere, can get some use from what I have written here.

Karandjeff helps house the purple martins

(Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from Nature Society News with permission of the writer.)

To the Editor:
Late one Sunday afternoon in the fall of 1982, a friend and I were playing golf at the U.S. Army St. Louis Support Center at Granite City, Illinois.
Our conversation turned to the many different kinds of birds that make the golf course their home. I pointed out the five or six hundred purple martins perched on the wires bordering the number one fairway. It appears the army base is one of the staging areas in this metropolitan region for the martins to assemble prior to their fall migration to the south.

My golfing partner, Henry D. Karandjeff, has always been a very public-minded citizen. He has been active for many years in the Boy Scouts; the Horseshoe Lake development, now a state park; the Regional and Urban Development Studies and Service; and the advisory committee for the establishment of Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville branch.
When it was pointed out the martin house at the army depot was most inadequate for our martin population, he readily agreed something ought to be done about this situation. The result is, thanks to his generosity, we now have a new purple martin multi-apartment house. It was erected early this April and is currently occupied.
This is in an area just a short distance from the Mississippi river, in fact, flooding is not uncommon. Thus, the mosquitoes are plentiful and the martins find it very easy to get a meal. We who play golf here are most grateful to this public spirited man for providing this added incentive to the martins.

Also the personnel at the Army installation were most cooperative in this worthwhile project.

Says writer misunderstands lovers of Elvis

To the Editor:
A few comments regarding the July 21 letter, "Heroes have obligation to show high morals."
First, I feel that a celebrity's private life is his or her own business unless it adversely affects the public performance of duty.
Secondly, people who didn't know Elvis Presley don't understand the fans' reaction to him. He was certainly not like a deity or cult figure to us, but he was very special to us and very important in our lives.
We didn't "worship" him, nor do we "worship" his memory, but our love and admiration for him was deep and genuine and we cherish his memory. He has a special place in our hearts.
Elvis was the most loving, giving, caring person we've ever known, being the greatest singer-entertainer.
He gave us his love, his attention, his gratitude. He worked hard to please us and we were always welcome at his Memphis estate. The Graceland gates were always open to us. Visiting Graceland is like visiting the home of a dear friend.
Losing a loved one is always difficult and losing Elvis was no exception. After six years, we still feel a tremendous amount of grief. His impact on us and on the world of music cannot be measured. We miss him greatly, so important was his place in our lives.

He was totally unique as a person and as a performer. He was the king of the concert stage and, as a wealthy man, he shared everything he had with everyone he loved, and many he didn't know.
So many strangers were the recipients of his generosity, and always without benefit of publicity. Elvis simply cared very deeply for people. He had the biggest heart of anyone we've ever known.

Elvis' influence on us was totally positive, I might add. He was very patriotic and an outspoken Christian. He showed great love and respect for his family, cherished his daughter, was an animal lover, was to be end a humble country boy who never forgot his roots.
Elvis is physically gone, but to us who loved him, he will never die because he lives in our hearts.

YMCA seeking water fountains

Featured this week in the Tri-Cities Area YMCA "Gifts Catalog" are water fountains, needed for several areas of the YMCA building. Area residents, groups, clubs, businesses, schools or churches may donate $240 to the YMCA to be used to purchase a cold water fountain. "It can be installed at the place of your choice in the name of your family, club or business," David Femrite, YMCA executive director said.

Each week, a different item or service the YMCA needs will be featured in the Press-Record, along with the name of the person or group who made the previous week's purchase.

Each contributor will receive a certificate of appreciation from the YMCA. Plaques or memorials can be arranged for larger gifts.

A contributor still is being sought for last week's gift, a $270 stationary bicycle. Gifts in the Gifts Catalog range from $10 for physical fitness equipment to $1,500 for a new photocopy machine.

The first Gifts Catalog donation from Attorney Bill Walker was $45 for the purchase of YBA tee shirts.

A $96,702 contract was awarded to CAM Construction, Ltd., of Alton, to repair the bridge deck on Route 3 over the Cahokia Diversion Channel just north of Mitchell.

Rite Electric Co. of Granite City won a $34,665 contract to modernize traffic signals on Route 111-140 at Stanley Road in Alton.

Other Madison County projects include rehabilitating the Route 111 overpass over the Conrail and B&O Railroad yards in Washington Park. H.H. Hall Construction Co. of East St. Louis won a $3,727,317 contract for that work.

Reese Construction Co. also is to provide nine-tenths of a mile of concrete surface on Route 163 between Bond Avenue and the new Interstate 255 in Centerville at a cost of $68,239.

The Mohoney firm also is to install base coat and resurfacing on 3.32 miles of Route 159 from Prairietown Road to north of the Madison-Macoupin County line south of Bunker Hill for $661,242.

designed to alert motorists to watch for hundreds of school children who are largely unaware of pedestrian safety rules.

The AAA offers these safety reminders for motorists: When in school zones, watch for reduced speed limit signs that become effective when classes are in session.

Remember to stop before passing or overtaking a school bus stopped to pick up or discharge children.

Watch for youngsters riding bicycles—they may appear suddenly from a blind spot near your car.

If you are a parent, help your child to map out his or her way to school, remembering that traffic hazards near schools multiply when children are dropped off and picked up in family cars.

Remember that school traffic controls such as stop signs, traffic signals and adult crossing guards are now operating, and summer driving habits must change to look for and obey these special controls.

Anticipate the actions of youngsters and be ready for anything by reducing speeds in areas where children are present.

Since children under the age of 15 account for nearly 50 percent of all pedestrian accidents, the AAA is asking motorists and parents to consider the safety of the school children, who depend on motorists to exercise safe driving habits.

Job training program starts Oct. 1

Local government and private industry have teamed up to provide job training for area residents of Madison and Bond Counties. Beginning Oct. 1, 1983, a new program will be underway which will affect federally-funded employment and job training programs.

The Job Training Partnership Act will replace the 10-year-old Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, an act that many people referred to as CETA.

For the past five years, Madison County has been part of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Private Industry Council which has consisted of two Illinois counties and four St. Louis area Missouri counties.

Under the revised Job Training Partnership Act, Madison County will operate its own Private Industry Council, joining with Bond County.

The agencies which will administer the council activities are the State of Illinois, Employment and Training Programs in Madison and Bond Counties, Madison County Board of Supervisors, Nelson Hagauer, said.

"This joint cooperative effort between Madison and Bond Counties is exciting and we look forward to the rewards this program will provide in training the economically disadvantaged youth and unemployed adults and in helping them find jobs."

Under the Job Training Partnership Act, the governor of each state has the direct responsibility for the JTPA programs.

It also will allow criminal and civil immunity to be granted to persons who provide law enforcement agencies with non-privileged information that aids domestic violence investigations. It takes effect immediately.

Other bills the governor signed include: —SB 1187, which calls for the Department of Public Health to draw up and enforce rules requiring every newborn baby to be tested for galactosemia, a metabolic disorder that can be treated with an inexpensive and simple test.

The measure adds to legislation Thompson signed last year that requiring testing for phenylketonuria and permits the Department of Public and Revenue to exchange information concerning income levels for public aid recipients, a move that will enable better checking for eligibility qualifications. The bill takes effect Jan. 1, 1984.

Other bills which amend the Use Tax Act to give credit to Illinois residents who purchase goods from another state and have property paid that state's sales tax. For example, if an Illinois resident purchases the three percent Indiana sales tax that would be paid on that transaction. The Illinois resident can then take a credit for the three percent tax paid and be liable for another one percent in Illinois. The bill is effective January 1, 1984.

In addition, the governor signed House Bill 944, which would allow State Police troopers to take part in political party candidate activities during their off-duty hours. "Such activities have been prohibited for more than 30 years" and should be continued to protect state police officers from pressures associated with campaign and political duties," he said in his veto message to the General Assembly.

The second bill Thompson vetoed was House Bill 944, which would make the Law Enforcement Merit Board independent of the Department of Law Enforcement, a move the governor said is unnecessary because the board is "already free to make its own decisions."

The governor's vetoes will be considered by the legislature in its October session.

Governor signs bill for more student loans

Governor James R. Thompson has approved a bill that increases the Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) bond limit by $75 million to provide more student loan funds.

The action fulfills a pledge I made last year to the education community and to the students of Illinois who depend on loans to further their academic careers.

By expanding the bond limit for the ISSC, more students can receive financial aid and attend Illinois colleges," the governor said.

Senate Bill 47 raises the ISSC's authority limit from $100 million to $175 million. Without the hike, the ISSC would have exhausted its available funds in Fiscal Year 1984.

In addition to granting a higher bond ceiling, the measure permits the Illinois Designated Account Purchase Program (IDAPP) to purchase bonds to fund loans. Established in 1977, the IDAPP is designed to reduce loan default rates by purchasing 30- to 90-day delinquent loans and other lending institutions to participate in state student loan funds.

Widening the types of loans the IDAPP can purchase will further encourage lenders to take part in programs such as the Guaranteed Student Loan Program and will strengthen the state's financial condition.

The bill takes effect immediately. Other bills the governor signed include: —SB 1187, which calls for the Department of Public Health to draw up and enforce rules requiring every newborn baby to be tested for galactosemia, a metabolic disorder that can be treated with an inexpensive and simple test.

City to study alternate truck route suggestion

By GEORGEANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

A truck route system that would divert heavy-duty tractor-trailers from some city streets was discussed Wednesday evening in a meeting of the Granite City Council session.

Alderman Jake Varadlian, Fifth Ward, said he will ask the street department to study the feasibility of routing truck traffic along 16th Street.

The route would bypass the downtown business district and close 18th Street and portions of 20th Street to truck traffic. Those streets are currently sanctioned truck routes.

The idea was acknowledged 16th Street is "pretty well beat up, there's going to have to be some improvements." He is not, however, advocating money to be immediately spent on street improvements.

Alderman Phillip Miller, Fourth Ward, said he was concerned about the possible cost of such a project. Alderman Michael Modrusick, Seventh Ward, said he was not sure the suggested route, but also wondered about the price.

Alderman Sharon Perjak, Fourth Ward, said the 16th Street route would help save downtown buildings that could become damaged due to the heavy flow of trucks.

Varadlian renewed efforts to find alternate truck routes through the city after an earlier attempt by him to update the city truck route laws became stalled due to residents' protests.

The alderman said he is trying to find a route using the least number of city streets in order to prevent road and building damage that might result from trucks. He sees no evidence that trucks currently observe any city truck routes.

Varadlian said he would see a variety of trucks going down many streets. "I would see a lot of trucks," he said.

Varadlian said a recognized and enforced truck route law is costing the city time and money in road repairs and cleaning up the debris left by some trucks, Varadlian stated.

According to City Attorney John Papa, the city can establish truck routes and block trucks from some streets, despite an expenditure of state Motor Fuel Tax funds to repair those streets. Only streets maintained by the state cannot be regulated against trucks, Papa said.

Those few streets include Edwardsville, Nampok and Pontoon roads, Missouri Avenue, Cedar Street and a portion of Madison Avenue from the city limits to 20th Street.

Trucks also would not be prevented from traveling the truck route to make deliveries in the city.

Others attending the truck meeting were Alderman Lloyd Batley, who worked on the alternate plan with Varadlian, and Alderman Everett Morton.

The primary purpose of the JTPA is to assist economically disadvantaged youth and adults with specialized skills training. The on-the-job training, Partnership Act funds cannot be used for public service.

Across the nation, the unemployment situation has created new thoughts toward training strategy from an industrialized base to a service base nation. Haganauer said.

"Our unemployed and disadvantaged youth are in great need of training. With the new Job Training Partnership Act, the training, business, government and the private sector will work together to train and help find employment for the nation's unemployed. This is a program that can work."

The Job Service office in American Village Shopping Center will accept applications for the program.

Recognition to governor for promoting ethanol fuel plane

Governor James R. Thompson has been presented with a special certificate of recognition by the National Aeronautic Association for the state's efforts in developing an ethanol-powered airplane to demonstrate the use of fuel made from Illinois farm products.

The Illinois Departments of Transportation and Agriculture have modified a single-engine Cessna 182 airplane to use ethanol fuel distilled from Illinois corn by Illinois firms.

This is part of the state's continuing effort to develop domestic alternative fuels with particular emphasis on using Illinois farm products. The certificate cited the governor's "aggressive leadership in the development of alternative fuels."

The certificate also notes the first cross-country flight of a state-owned aircraft on a renewable fuel-ethanol. The flight from Springfield, Ill., to Marianna, Fla., occurred in mid-April and was at the request of the U.S. Department of Energy. The subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives was, at that time, holding hearings on alternative energy sources at the Florida location.

The Department of Transportation displayed the ethanol-powered airplane at the Illinois State Fair and will continue to feature it at agriculture and aviation events throughout the year.

Grants to help teenage parents

Governor James R. Thompson announced on Tuesday that grants totaling $1,876,400 have been awarded to 44 agencies by the Illinois Department of Public Health to provide prenatal care and family planning services. The program is part of Parents Too Soon, a statewide initiative to prevent teenage pregnancy.

"These grants provide the front edge of what will become one of the most comprehensive programs in the United States to help teenagers make better choices about their lives and the lives of their children. We can and must provide our teenage children with more healthy opportunities than becoming parents before they are ready," Thompson said.

"We are calling upon these local agencies to make these grants part of a total commitment to help eliminate one of Illinois' most significant health problems."

The Parents Too Soon program was announced by the governor in April in a statewide effort to reduce adolescent pregnancies and to improve the health and well-being of children born to teenagers. The program, funded through the recent federal Jobs Bill, is targeted to areas of Illinois with high infant mortality rates and a high number of births to teenage mothers.

Madison Man Charged After Woman Bitten
A Madison woman was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after she was allegedly bitten by her husband, from whom she is separated. She was released from SEMC the following day.

The woman ran to her neighbor's house after her husband, James Compton, allegedly bit her. The neighbor said that when she opened the door for the woman, she saw Compton hit his wife with his fist.

She alleged that he picked up a chair from the front yard and struck his wife with it. The disturbance caused a living room window to be broken in the neighbor's house, at which time Compton fled, the witness said.

The victim said she was staying at a friend's house and babysitting for a friend when Compton forced his way into the home. She said her husband forced the front door open, called her names and knocked her to the floor with his fists.

Compton was charged with two counts of criminal damage to property and one count of aggravated battery.

MAN FLOODS CELL, GETS SECOND CHARGE
An East St. Louis man was first charged with disobeying a police officer and then with criminal damage to property after he allegedly flooded and tore up a jail cell at the Madison Police Department.

Jerry Butler, 27, was arrested last week when he allegedly returned to "a Madison woman's home after being told to leave the premises and stay away."

Police, who were called to the home after Butler allegedly came back, said that he refused to leave. He was arrested and jailed.

About three hours later, a police dispatcher noticed the cell and hallway were flooded. About a half-inch of water was on the cell floor.

A blanket was saturated with water and pieces of porcelain from the wash basin were found on the floor, police said. They were uncertain how much it would cost to replace the basin.

Charges filed against man, 27

An incident at a dwelling in the 2100 block of Delmar Avenue during the weekend, resulted in the arrest of Charles H. Freiner Jr., 27, who gave no address.

Officers went to the apartment in response to a neighbor's complaint of a disturbance taking place and a possible shot having been fired.

An officer alleged looking through a window and seeing Freiner sitting on a bed holding a weapon. The man placed the gun under a cushion when another officer knocked at the door, it was reported.

A loaded .357-caliber revolver allegedly was found in the apartment and a spent round of ammunition was recovered from a couch. A hole was noted in the floor of the front room, reports said. A second weapon, a derringer, and a box of ammunition also were seized in the apartment. A woman had left the dwelling prior to the arrival of police, reports said.

Freiner was charged with reckless conduct, discharging a firearm within the city limits and not having a Firearm Owner's Identification card.

He also was booked on an active warrant alleging failure to appear in court on charges of criminal damage to property and disorderly conduct.

BUGLARY WARRANT

Steven A. Dunnivant, 20, 1106 State St., was arrested last week by Madison police on a burglary warrant. A mittimus to the Madison County Jail was issued after Dunnivant appeared in court.

Nameoki sets tax levies at $384,990

By PAT HAYLUTZ for the Press-Record
Nameoki Town Board members approved tax levies of $559,526 for the general town fund and $146,464 for the road fund during the regular meeting Monday night. According to Trustee W. Lee Adams, the levy amounts passed are the same as those passed last year.

The general town fund levy calls for $155,726 of general town fund tax, $82,800 of general assistance tax and $20,000 Illinois Municipal Retirement Tax, bringing the total to $258,526. The road tax levy of $146,464 comes from a road and bridge tax of $128,464 and the IMRT tax of $18,000.

In other business, Supervisor Harry Briggs threw out a motion by Trustee Helen Hawkins which requested that a lawsuit pending against former Supervisor Louis Whitsell be dismissed. Mrs. Hawkins suggested that the suit, which has been in the court system since 1977, should never have been filed, alleging that the motive behind the filing was "political."

According to the suit, Whitsell is being sued for $6,185 in salary paid to his wife when she held a part-time position with the township from February, 1970, to June, 1976. The suit also claims punitive damages of $50,000. Although Briggs indicated that the present board consented to the court action, which was filed by the previous board, Mrs. Hawkins claims that former board members were aware of Mrs. Whitsell's employment during their terms and should never have waited to file.

"I don't like the way it was handled," Mrs. Hawkins stated. "They knew along what was going on, but waited until election time to do anything about it."

Board Attorney Irvin C. Slate Jr. is representing the township in the matter and Briggs emphasized that pursuant to the case represents no extra cost to the taxpayers of the township.

Several residents of Arlington Heights subdivision, who declined to give their names, alleged discrimination by members of the town board in the board's applications for government grants. According to the residents, their request for water was made 15 years ago and a recent application for an EDA grant for a sewer system in State Park Place angered them.

"We followed all the steps that Mr. Briggs outlined for us," one resident said. "We just want to know how priorities are handled with this board," she stated.

Briggs had suggested the establishment of an Arlington water district and $5,000 of Nameoki Township revenue sharing money was given to the newly-formed district to cover attorney and engineer expenses incurred by the district. Briggs contends that he cannot apply for the $250,000 needed for the Arlington water district as he applied for the $1 million necessary for the State Park Place sewer system because Arlington has its own governing entity.

Attorney Slate assured the residents that they had followed the proper procedures in petitioning for government grants, and that they had an equal chance of getting funding for the project. "Economically, you may not have the same chance as State Park Place. On the other hand, you have a water district and someone who has paid your expenses, so that's in your favor," he said.

Residents from Hemlock Avenue also were present to petition Highway Commission Frank Mehelic to oil and chip their street again.

According to Frank Scigliak, who presented the petition to the board, oil began to "bleed" though the gravel within four hours after the work was done by the township road crew and the petition requests that the work be done once again.

Members of the road crew explained that the extreme heat and the removal of shade trees on Hemlock were two factors which caused the oil-and-chip process to be inadequate.

Scigliak also requested that the board look into the feasibility of blacktop for the street and crew members listed the cost at approximately $300,000.

PURSE STOLEN

Various credit cards, a check and a college ring were in a purse reported stolen at the Kroger store, 3401 Nameoki Road, Karen L. Reyes, 3301 Bluebird Lane, reported last week. The purse was left momentarily on a table at the front of the store, but was missing when she returned, the owner said.

Three get $2.3 million each in record lotto week

By late Monday afternoon, all three lotto players who matched all six winning numbers in the Aug. 20 Illinois lotto drawing had identified themselves to lotto officials.

William Shelby of Chicago's West Side walked into the lotto's Chicago office Monday with his winning ticket. He said that since anxious lotto players had tied up the lotto's phone lines, he decided to go to the office himself.

Harold Collins of Pekin took his ticket to the lotto's regional office in Peoria for validation.

Since the lotto does not take the names of its players when they buy tickets, officials must wait for winners to identify themselves. Lotto computers are able to indicate the number of winning tickets sold, but cannot identify the individuals who purchased them.

Shelby, 46, the father of seven, is a former musician who played both soul and blues around the country and on records. He said that he had no plans yet for the money, but added that the $2.3 million he won will make no real change in his family's lifestyle since "we already have everything we want."

Shelby's 26-year-old son, Julio, selected the numbers on his father's winning ticket, and said that each number corresponds to something important in his or a family member's life.

The 1 is for his wife's birthday, the 11 for his birthday, the 17 for the age at which Julio joined the Navy, the 29 the date of his brother's birthday, and other numbers representing similar occasions.

Collins, 57, celebrated his grand prize winnings on the weekend of his 50th year with the Caterpillar Tractor Co. He is employed at the Mendota plant as an engine repairman and regularly buys lotto tickets for his co-workers.

Thus, his lucky week, however, as he not only won the $2.3 million grand prize, but another one of his tickets matched five of six winning numbers. This added $1,130 in second prize money to his lot.

Collins chose his numbers from winning numbers in other state lotteries which are displayed in the USA Today newspaper and from special holiday dates. Collins, who is single, plans to use the money to buy a home in Florida for his eventual retirement.

The third grand prize winner is Dora Holmes, 52, of Harvey. She said she had a hard time getting through to the lotto offices because of the steady flow of calls they were handling.

She is married and has five children. She works as a practical nurse at the William A. Howe Developmental Center for the Retarded in Tinley Park.

Her $2.3 million ticket purchased at Berkot's Grocery Store in Harvey, was based on numbers representing family birthdays. She said winning will not keep her from continuing to play and enjoy the lotto game.

"I was getting nervous that we would have to share the prize with a lot of people when I couldn't get through on the phones," she explained. "We finally found out where to go to the lotto and it was a relief to hear that only two others won."

Her plans for the money include a "dream" motor home to take her on an extended vacation across the U.S., with a likely stop at Mr. Rushmore.

She could also visit to visit other family members in Washington, D.C., and Dallas, Texas, she noted.

Each of the three grand prize winners will collect the winnings in 20 annual installments of $115,276.

Michael J. Jones, lotto superintendent, said that if only one person had won, that individual would have received the largest prize ever awarded in Illinois State Lotto history—$6.9 million.

He added that this week's grand prize will again start at $1 million, but that increased interest in lotto sales will likely raise that amount by the weekend.

Jones said the actual cash in the grand prize pool rose to $2.98 million, and that this was enough to purchase three annuities of $2.3 million each—one for each grand prize winner.

Lotto sales last week reached $5.7 million, more than double the previous record of $2.7 million set the week before.

The grand prize pool reached such a high level last week because there had been no grand prize winner in the previous four lotto drawings.

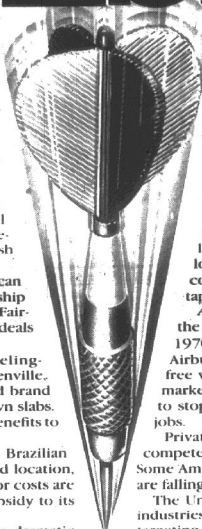

In each drawing in which there is no winner, 50 percent of that week's grand prize pool rolls over and is added to the next week's prize. This rollover continues until the grand prize pool is won.

In addition to the grand prize winners, there were 500 players who matched five of the six winning numbers, and they each will collect $1,130.

An additional $8,047 players matched four of the six winning numbers, and they will each collect $32.50.

There were no alternate grand prize winners. The alternate grand prize is awarded only when there is no grand prize winner. The winning numbers for the Aug. 20 drawing were 01, 11, 17, 21, 29 and 32.

BULLSEYE

Brazil is the latest country seeking to sell hundreds of thousands of tons of subsidized steel slabs to an American steel company for finishing into steel products.

The slabs would replace steel made in America, further reduce our steelmaking capacity and throw out of work additional thousands of steel industry suppliers, steelworkers, and service employees in steel towns.

However, a Brazilian government representative said Brazil is "... being cautious and is still waiting to see the outcome of a similar deal between United States Steel Corporation and British Steel Corporation."

In earlier statements we warned the American public that if British Steel is allowed to annually ship 3 million tons of subsidized steel to U.S. Steel's Fairless Works, there would be a flood of cheaper deals from Brazil, Korea, and other countries.

Already, Brazil is negotiating with Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel to ship raw steel slabs to Steubenville, Ohio. The Steubenville Works has just installed brand new "state-of-the-art" equipment to make its own slabs. Workers there have taken deep cuts in pay and benefits to help their company modernize.

Still, Wheeling-Pittsburgh officials say, the Brazilian steel would be far cheaper. Steubenville's inland location, modern equipment, and substantially lower labor costs are all overcome by the Brazilian government's subsidy to its new steel industry.

What is happening in the steel industry is a dramatic example of the problem of international targeting of selected industries.

Through targeting, a government gives preferred treatment to a chosen industry—subsidizing its development in many ways until its products can be dumped on foreign markets at prices far below the true cost of production.

Because of our high consumption and lack of a national industrial policy, the United States is a sitting duck for these practices. Look at what has happened in some other industries which have been targeted:

COMPUTERIZED MACHINE TOOLS: Japan's share of this market in the United States has increased from 5% to 50% since 1976. 24,000 American jobs have been lost.

COLOR TELEVISION: Japan targeted this industry in the 1960's. Since then, 13 American color television producers have dropped out, leaving only five. 27,364 American jobs have been lost. A total of 63,000 have been lost in related consumer electronics industries including radios, tape decks and phonographs.

AIRBUS: Western European countries targeted the world commercial aircraft market in the early 1970's with the creation of a joint venture called Airbus Industries—which now accounts for half of the free world market for widebodied aircraft. This rapid market penetration contributed to Lockheed's decision to stop production of the L1011, with a loss of 4,000 jobs.

Private American business firms and workers cannot compete against the governments of foreign countries. Some American industries are simply disappearing. Others are falling far behind their subsidized foreign competitors.

The United States will lose more and more of its basic industries and the jobs they provide until we understand targeting—and develop national industrial policies that deal effectively with targeting.

Today we are faced with the very real threat of losing America's steel independence. If we do, much of our military power and economic base will also be lost.

Tomorrow, it could be your industry. It could be your job.

Numerous bills are signed by governor

Governor James R. Thompson said Monday he has signed bills clarifying the Department of Public Aid's role in paying for the diagnosis and treatment of sickle-cell anemia and giving the handicapped an opportunity to have support dogs.

The governor signed House Bill 308, which codifies the Department of Public Aid's current practice of authorizing payment for the diagnosis and treatment of sickle-cell anemia. The bill is effective Jan. 1, 1984.

Thompson also approved House Bill 1037, which would extend to physically disabled persons the right to have support dogs with the same privileges as seeing eye and hearing support dogs. For example, the dogs' owners would be exempt from the Animal Control Act and could not be discriminated against in public places or in the selling or renting of accommodations. The bill takes effect Jan. 1, 1984.

In other action, the Governor approved House Bill 74, which gives municipal governments the authority to indemnify police officers for liability incurred on duty if the city certifies that the officer was on duty and that the city will pay any judgment. The bill allows cities, if they choose, to insulate policemen from this liability. The bill also is effective Jan. 1, 1984.

A measure, House Bill 711, which would allow historical plates provided by the owner to be used on antique vehicles rather than current antique license plates, as long as the current license plates, with a valid registration sticker attached, are carried inside the vehicle and available for inspection. The bill is effective Jan. 1, 1984.

—Senate Bill 182, which requires Department of Agriculture personnel to wear sanitized footwear or reasonable equipment provided by the owner when entering a livestock management facility to investigate violations of the Humane Care for Animals Act. The measure is designed to prevent agriculture inspectors from transmitting communicable diseases through contaminated footwear. The measure is effective Jan. 1, 1984.

WARRENT ARREST
John P. Brooks Jr., 23, of St. Louis, was arrested at the Illinois Motel, 1100 Niedringhaus Ave., early this week, on an active warrant alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of reckless driving.

Ryan chairs task force on preventing drug abuse

Lieutenant Governor George H. Ryan has been named the chairman of a newly-created National Conference of Lieutenant Governors' Task Force on Substance Abuse Prevention. The conference's Executive Committee created the task force in response to a Ryan-sponsored policy resolution which was unanimously approved. The conference members approved more than a dozen resolutions. The Substance Abuse Prevention Task Force was the only Task Force created as a result of the conference.

In a personal letter to the conference members, Ryan cited several alarming statistics on drug and alcohol abuse. Ryan concentrated on figures which illustrated the high cost to society of substance abuse.

In adopting the policy resolution, the nation's lieutenant governors pledged to become active in promoting prevention programs in their states. Ryan told his colleagues that efforts to address the problem through increased law enforcement and stricter punishment have proven to be all but futile.

"Newsweek" magazine recently reported the illicit drug use per capita in the United States is the highest of any industrialized nation," Ryan said in his letter. "Clearly, we must refocus our priorities and concentrate on getting to the potential users before they become addicts."

Ryan stressed that he believes the community-based volunteer prevention programs are the vehicles by which the Task Force will realize the greatest success. "These private sector programs have proven highly successful in providing the necessary information and human understanding that is critical to making the right decision about drug and alcohol abuse," Ryan said in his letter. "However, these private groups do not have an effective means of coordinating their efforts and sharing ideas and resources. "The National Conference of Lieutenant Governors, in general, is an organization which has both the authority and the flexibility to pull together these government program administrators and provide citizens who have the interest and the means to address the problem of substance abuse," he contended.

Ryan said he will use the task force to establish a communications network and to coordinate prevention programs nationwide.

The National Conference of Lieutenant Governors was held Aug. 18 through Aug. 21 in Lake Tahoe, Nev.

Two-year sentence on controlled drug
Patrick Scheffer, 34, of 2004 Elm Ave. must serve two years in a state prison.

Circuit Judge Philip Rarick has ordered. Scheffer was charged by Wood River police May 1 with possession of a controlled substance and he pleaded guilty July 27.

ORDERS PROBATION AND SERVICE WORK
Alan Turcott, 3202 Kirkpatrick Homes, has been placed on two-year probation and ordered to serve 200 hours in public service work.

The sentencing by Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick noted that a burglary took place July 28 and that a guilty plea was submitted. Turcott also was fined $500 and $50 special costs.

"These private sector programs have proven highly successful in providing the necessary information and human understanding that is critical to making the right decision about drug and alcohol abuse," Ryan said in his letter. "However, these private groups do not have

Madison Mutual offers new home insurance

Madison Mutual Insurance Company is introducing new Improved Homeowner Insurance for area residents, according to company officials.

In making the announcement, Clinton H. Rogier, Madison Mutual President, said, "Madison Mutual's Homeowner Insurance will offer the most complete coverage a homeowner can get at surprisingly low rates."

Rogier indicated over two years of planning went into the new homeowner program. "We said, 'Policyholders will be assured the same high standards of protection and service always associated with Madison Mutual's auto insurance coverage.'"

Rogier added, "Since we have served the area for over 60 years, recently improved its auto insurance coverage and expanded operations in to all of southern Illinois under the first phase of its growth program, The Homeowner Insurance development marks the second phase, the president explained.

The Homeowners' Insurance Plan will protect policy holders from a variety of perils and provide many options for property and liability coverage, according to Rogier.

Madison Mutual, which has served the area for over 60 years, recently improved its auto insurance coverage and expanded operations in to all of southern Illinois under the first phase of its growth program. The Homeowner Insurance development marks the second phase, the president explained.

The home offices and claims facility of Madison Mutual are located in Edwardsville. There are three Madison Mutual agents in Granite City, Rogier added.

Taxpayers now entitled to interest on tax protests

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation that will allow taxpayers to receive interest on refunds from successful protests of their property tax bills.

"This measure will allow taxpayers, who have to pay interest on delinquent taxes, to also collect five percent interest on refunds from successful protests of their property taxes. This is money those taxpayers could have invested themselves had their money not been tied up in a protest fund," the governor said.

The bill, House Bill 676, requires county treasurers to withhold in a protest fund a certain amount of property taxes paid under protest. The amount will be the lesser of the total amount paid under protest, an amount equal to the average annual tax objections sustained over the past five years, or 5 percent of the total taxes collected.

Thompson said the bill, which passed with no dissenting votes, also will guarantee taxpayers that refunds can be made as soon as judgments are final. The measure takes effect immediately. Thompson vetoed a duplicate bill, Senate Bill 134. Thompson also signed House Bill 1870, which allows the Department of Agriculture to collect reasonable fees for certain non-mandatory diagnostic services performed by state animal disease laboratories. No fees would be charged for diagnostic tests currently required by Illinois law. The new fees are estimated to bring about $626,000 into the state treasury and are effective immediately.

DAV announces membership drive

Andrew Gitchoff, Commander of Quad-Cities Chapter 53 Disabled American Veterans, reported to the members at the August meeting that National Headquarters has advised him the official 1982-1983 membership for the local chapter is 397.

The State of Illinois membership is 20,556, and the membership for the United States is 786,810. The goal of 1,000,000 members nationally by 1985 still remains, and a goal of 50,000 in Illinois remains realistic, he reported. Chapter 53 has set a goal of 500 by 1985. The DAV membership year starts July 1st and ends the following June 30th, he added.

Larry Lockhart reported that Jim Estes is still recovering during the past month. He also reviewed the events at the National convention in Los Angeles.

Dennis Joyner, a combat Vietnam veteran, was elected National Commander, replacing Edward Gallian. Senator Allen Cranston was the keynote speaker at the convention and remarked that the defenders of the country, especially the disabled, were special to him and that he thought a vast majority of the American people agreed with him. He assured the delegates that, if elected president of the United States, he would consult with veteran organizations on all matters affecting them.

VA Administrator, Harry N. Walters, also addressed the delegates and assured them that he was totally committed to the veterans of the United States and that he would resist with all his strength backdoor attempts by OMB to curtail or abolish VA programs by budget cutting. President Reagan has echoed strong support for the veterans of this country both before he became president and since he became president, he said. There was one disappointment to the Illinois delegation who had hoped to elect past Department of Illinois Commander D. Ray Wilson to a national office, according to Lockhart.

Don Moore, commander of sister Chapter 53 in Creve Coeur, Mo., invited all to attend their annual picnic at the American Legion Field in Creve Coeur.

A donation to SEMC Meals on Wheels program was approved.

Andrew Gitchoff, Joseph Hefferty, Larry Lockhart and Lawrence McGuire were elected to represent Chapter 53 at the state executive committee meeting in Peoria, in late September. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

SIX CHARGES AFTER THREE CARS DAMAGED
Six charges were filed last week against Richard A. Simpson, 23, Collinsville, after a weekend collision that damaged the left rear of his car, westbound on W. 20th Street, and the front of the car of Martin Swiger, 1705 Venice Ave., northbound on Route Three. The spare tire flew from the Simpson car and hit the front of the southbound auto of Maurice Glosper, Winchester, Ill.

Simpson was booked for leaving a scene of vehicle damage, failing to give aid or information, improperly using a car's registration, reckless driving, disobeying a stoplight and driving with a revoked license. The car was abandoned at Jefferson Avenue and W. 20th. A Collinsville boy, 14, who was with him was charged with disorderly conduct; he was apprehended by a Tri-City Port guard.

$501,913 park levy OK'd by commissioners

THOMAS TURNER has been selected labor participation chairman for the 1983 United Way campaign. He served on the labor participation committee last year. Turner, 37, is treasurer of the Granite City Federation of Teachers Local 743 and is their delegate to the Tri-Cities Central Trades and Labor Council. He has taught in Granite City 16 years.

The Granite City Board of Park Commissioners at Wednesday night's regular meeting approved the tax levy ordinance, hired a new preschool aide and adopted a new pay schedule for prospective seasonal employees.

On a motion by Commissioner John "Jeff" Worthen, the tax levy ordinance was unanimously approved by the board. The levy provides for $501,913 to be raised by taxation for the fiscal year beginning May 1, 1983.

This is 54 percent of the total budget adopted last month by the board. The 1983-84 budget is $933,575.

Mrs. Kathryn Hitt was hired by the board as the new preschool aide. The vote was 4-0 with Commissioner Barry Loman abstaining. Her pay was established at $4-per-hour.

A new pay schedule for seasonal employees was discussed at length by the commissioners who eventually approved the proposal with the stipulation that the pay schedule be for new and prospective employees filling seasonal positions. It was stressed that former employees being hired for the same positions in which they had worked would not be affected by the new schedule and would remain at their same pay rates.

In other business, the board approved the use of park facilities for ball games, including ball day night. In the past, they had cited the city's unemployment rate and that they thought should be made in the city's legal staff and engineering department, before they could support the budget or levy.

Although Salich said he agrees with the new levy figure, he voting against it, apparently in reaction to the number of negative votes cast against it by his Plant, thereby eliminating a proposed improvement project there.

Venice officials voiced considerable concern at previous council meetings about the possible curtailment of operations at the Lansdowne facility, which currently serves the cities of Venice and Madison in the Quad-City area.

Under an alternative proposal, now apparently favored by the IEPA, municipalities and townships in the region would build sewers to send wastewater through the county's special service area sewers to the Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant, which includes secondary treatment.

"The state officials seem to think the area will be best served by going to Granite City," Mayor Echols told the aldermen.

"Since the Feds have changed the regulations and there now seems to be some flexibility from the state, they have been thinking this way," Mayor Echols said, adding the state would have to provide more money to improve the Lansdowne facility.

Improvements at Lansdowne would include adding extra facilities at a cost of about $10.5 million, while the entire regional project would cost an estimated $5.8 million, reports indicated.

Treatment plan

In saying that dealings with Granite cured him "like a country ham," the mayor hinted that an increasingly poor relationship with its neighboring community began when Venice had an agreement for ambulance service with Granite City, which started at a reasonable rate per call and increased to $125 per call, plus mileage, according to Mayor Echols.

Some of the other cities involved in the regional concept presently are connected to the Lansdowne facility, but would use the facility here if the proposal is agreed upon by the communities involved.

The municipalities of Venice, Madison, Brooklyn, Caseyville, Fairmont City, Washington Park and National City and unincorporated areas of Stites and Canteen townships and parts of Venice and Nameoki townships would be affected.

"No matter what they (IEPA) say, the bottom line is, can people pay for it?" Mayor Echols said to the councilmen.

"Sewer bills could go up 15 to 20 percent and, if only half the people pay their bills, they could raise your rates to make up for those who don't pay," he added.

"The state is looking at what they call a cost-effective analysis and that is from a different perspective than what it will cost you."

"I admonish you to take note of the public hearing Sept. 20 and be there. Not only you gentlemen sitting around the table tonight, but citizens too. A lot of our citizens are on fixed incomes and this change would affect them," the mayor stressed.

He held out little hope for state approval of the upgrading of the Lansdowne facility, commenting, "I don't think they are going to be entirely flexible on this matter."

IEPA officials have said that monthly sewage bills might increase slightly, but the rate hike would not be dramatic. Not until all communities and groups involved have been contacted, however, the state knows exactly how much bills will increase.

The regional sewers could begin operation within three months, if an agreement is reached among the communities, it was stated earlier.

GC tax levy

When levy talks began earlier this year, the finance committee had first suggested a 52 percent increase. It would have meant a $2.09 per $100 tax rate. Several residents testified against the proposal in a public hearing conducted in July.

The levy is only one source of many used for city services, including state and federal revenues, the city's own sales and utility taxes, fines and fees.

Link class size

rumors of classes of 40, 50 and even 60 students but that they have no basis in fact. Excessive turnouts, as contrasted with potential enrollments, would be resolved immediately, the team said.

The district's official proposal is a 4 percent pay cut, with class sizes adjusted based on 33-37 guidelines (kindergarten, first three grades and all other grades).

Points made by the administrator-board team included:

"The district always stands ready to meet on the dispute and has not 'broken off talks,'" as some radio newscasters have said.

"The chief issue is economic. Program cuts are not brought up as a ploy, as a negotiating strategy, or as a desirable, but only as a financial necessity."

"The district's pledge to continue classes of proper size is clear-cut and unswerving of being challenged as to its credibility. When a similar dispute arose in 1979, the district based class size decisions on six-day enrollment, a procedure it has followed for many years."

"The $400,000 sought by the local to 'assure' follow-through by the board and the school board would be divided among existing teachers as the union, not the district, decides, the team said in reviewing a Local 743 statement."

"The district plans no boundary adjustments or busing from one school to another to alter class sizes, despite rumors to that effect."

School law requires callbacks on the basis of seniority, and the district wants to be able to evaluate those with the same date of hire to pick the individual whose experience and qualifications are best, rather than allowing ties to be broken by some other method.

Some of the local's seniority proposals would have the effect of giving preference to teachers with less seniority than other teachers.

Class size is directly related to the size of the staff and the cost of staffing the schools. "There is no way to pursue such matters without realizing that money also is involved."

"Because the district lacks control over state aid and the tax base, it must avoid inflexible constraints on its decisions that affect school costs. A month's aid to Granite City of nearly $1 million is being delayed by the state government, for example."

State law provides for one-year recall rights, and severance pay usually is linked to the recall period; the local seeks three years and the district has offered two years.

Extended indefinitely, recall rights would be a procedural nightmare and a big financial burden.

A board voice in callback decisions, just like its voice in hiring, is essential if the board is to safeguard students' right to quality education.

Classes for the past decade have been held in the low 20s and, in some cases, less than 20 students, attesting to the board's desire for ideal teaching conditions. The board has established credentials in showing that it cares for the staff and the children.

Instead of $2 1/2 million, the board insisted that it was more than $4 million behind in 1982. The audit shows it overspent income by $4,757,000.

The board said it would have to borrow $7.7 million, the local said it would be about $1.5 million less than that. Actual borrowing was $7.5 million and it has now topped $8 million.

The board has the responsibility to continue to operate the schools; employees and others do not. The board has sought to continue programs in 1983-84 on the same basis as in the past and it is dedicated to good schools, the team concluded.

Special county board meeting

A special meeting of the Madison County Board will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday, Aug. 29, in the county board room in the court house in Edwardsville.

The meeting will be for the purpose of considering the adoption of a resolution giving Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of the board, authority to sign the grant agreements and other documents that may be necessary for the Urban Development Action Grant for the A. O. Smith auto frame assembly plant here.

The $2.5 million UDAG grant will be for the renovation of the plant which is to reopen in mid 1984.

The Granite City Council Tuesday night approved the sale of $10 million of industrial revenue bonds to aid in the renovation of the plant which has not been in operation since 1980.

The plant will be producing a new front end structure for 1986 Ford passenger cars.

Labor Day gasoline ample, inexpensive

Gasoline prices have changed little since June and motorists will be paying from 3 to 4 cents per gallon less than they were for fuel during last year's Labor Day weekend, according to the AAA-Auto Club of Missouri's fuel survey.

In addition, motorists should have no trouble finding fuel while traveling on the Labor Day weekend.

This survey of 55 stations on main highways in Missouri, Illinois and Kansas revealed that prices increased 1-cent per gallon for some grades and stayed the same for full-service unleaded since the last survey in late June.

Motorists can save by shopping around for fuel, as prices vary by as much as 30 cents per gallon.

Regular gasoline at full-service pumps costs $1.19 to $1.48, and stations are charging from $1.24 to $1.54 for full-service unleaded.

Self-service prices also range widely — from $1.05 to $1.25 for regular, and from $1.10 to $1.34 for unleaded gasoline.

Most stations will be open on the Labor Day weekend.

The survey showed that 67 percent of the stations contacted will be open Sunday, Sept. 4, and 82 percent said they will be open Labor Day, Sept. 5.

Motorcyclist, passenger hurt

Two persons riding a motorcycle were hurt during the weekend, when their machine, heading north on Nameoki Road, was struck by an auto turning left into Clark Avenue.

Albert A. Strain, 42, of 2844 Lake St., Pontoon Beach, and his passenger, Shirley K. Strain, 41, of the Lake Street address, suffered injuries in the mishap and were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Carol M. Maher, 33, of 707 Meadowlane Drive, Mitchell, driver of the southbound auto, told police that her vision was obscured by a truck going into the Kroger store parking lot.

Nameoki Township food distribution set

Distribution at the township office, 4250 Highway 162, will begin at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. State Park distribution will begin at the State Park Fire Station at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Township officials said that cheese, butter and other food items will be available for eligible low-income residents.

Revised maximum family income eligibility is $488 per month for one person; $648 for two; three, $808; four, $968; five, $1,128; six, $1,290; seven, $1,450 and eight, $1,610. Additional family members are allowed $129 each after eight persons.

Residents must bring proof of residency.

LOOT A PICKUP PARKED AT HOME

Power tools and other items were stolen from the bed of a pickup truck parked outside the home of Gary L. Harris, 2912 Dogwood Drive, he reported at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday. A complete list of missing items was being compiled.

Initially determined to be missing were three power saws, worth $200 each, a power mitre saw and a reciprocating saw, each valued at $200, three extension cables, a tool box, $50, carpenter's tools, $100, another tool box with mechanic's tools, $35, and two roofing hatchets.

All prospective foster families also must meet with department licensing workers in the foster home.

TWO-YEAR PROBATION ON BURGLARY CHARGE

L.S. Mouser, Cottage Hills, has been placed on two years of probation by Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick.

A charge of burglary was filed by Madison police July 8 and he submitted a guilty plea July 21.

Girl alleges beating by 3

A 13-year-old girl told police about being accosted and beaten by three females while walking the 2500 block of Nameoki Road at 2 p.m. Monday.

The victim alleged two girls initially "jumped" on her and then the pair was joined in the attack by an older woman.

The girl suffered a swollen left eye and bruises to her left cheek. She was taken by her mother to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

The mother signed a complaint against Cynthia D. Perfetto, 23, of 1104 Kirkpatrick Homes, who was arrested on a charge of battery in connection with the case. Mrs. Perfetto was later released upon posting a $52 cash bond.

At 2:40 p.m. Monday, a 14-year-old girl turned herself in at police headquarters and also was charged with battery on a complaint signed by the victim's mother.

The juvenile suspect was released to a parent on notice to appear in court. The third person allegedly involved in the attack was still being sought.

MISHAP IN LOT

Glenn A. Wright, 17, of Granite City was turning a Jeep around in the Midtown Pharmacy lot, 2057 Johnson Road, during the weekend when the vehicle overturned, reports said. The youth sustained an injury in the mishap.

Jail sentence, fine for growing cannabis

After receiving information about a man allegedly growing marijuana in boxes and pots in his home's back yard, officers went to 2421 Missouri Ave., and reported seeing several large buckets and pots containing what appeared to be cannabis plants.

Robert W. Coble, 25, of that address, was confronted and allegedly acknowledged growing the plants. He was charged with unlawful production of cannabis.

Fifty-three plants were placed in plastic bags and 12 plants in a large bucket were confiscated, reports said.

In an appearance before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand in the Granite City court at 12:15 p.m. Monday, Coble pleaded guilty to unlawful production of cannabis. He was fined $1,055 and sentenced to serve 90 days in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Additionally, he was given one year's probation.

Coble was transferred to the county facility at 3:35 p.m. Monday.

Investigation into house fire

A fire extinguished by Granite City firefighters at 2301 E. 23rd St. at 6:25 p.m. Monday, appeared to be suspicious in nature and is under investigation by fire department officials. It was learned this week.

Firefighters remained at the scene for two hours and 10 minutes.

The blaze apparently originated under a first floor stairway, where it was mainly confined, reports indicate. Flooring, joists and wall studs were badly charred.

The two-story masonry dwelling is owned by Everett Landless and was occupied by Mrs. Clara Turner, according to reports.

LEGION HIRING AWARD TO VETERAN

The American Legion Economic Commission established the award in 1969 to promote full employment of veterans.

For Maxvill, Atlanta's now the team, but St. Louis is home

Granite Citian Made It 'In The Big Leagues'

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

Dal Maxvill, former Granite Citian and member of two World Champion Cardinal baseball teams, may be spending his summers in Atlanta, Ga., but regardless of where he lives, St. Louis will always be his home.

Charles Dallan Maxvill, 44, came home last Sunday evening as the Atlanta Braves, the team for which he now coaches, prepared for a three-game series with the Cardinals.

For Maxvill, the homecoming was sweet, but it wasn't complete until Tuesday afternoon when he arrived at Busch Stadium. It was then that the former Cardinal shortstop felt he had really come home.

Even the 7-0 shelling the Braves suffered Tuesday night wasn't going to ruin his homecoming. Although, if it had, Atlanta made Tuesday's loss a little easier for the Braves' coaching staff to swallow with their own 11-3 romp the following evening.

But Maxvill wasn't looking for revenge. A victory perhaps, but not revenge. He was just happy to be back in St. Louis.

"This is home. It's great to be back in St. Louis," Maxvill said Tuesday in the Braves' dugout. "Many of my (playing days) memories are linked to St. Louis and this stadium," Maxvill said, reminiscing with a gleam in his eye.

He recalled the '64 World Series, Sportsman's Park and catching a fly ball for the final out. He also remembered the '67 World Series, the newness of Busch Memorial Stadium and the triple he hit in the seventh game, which sparked the Cardinals to Series victory over Boston in the fall classic.

A career high point? That was more difficult than recalling the memories, the former Cardinal said. Finally, after reflecting back over his 10 years as a Cardinal and the years that followed, he conceded that his triple in the final game of the '67 Series was a career high point.

"I guess I'd have to say that triple in the seventh game was the highlight. That was a real thrill," he said.

It's not surprising that Maxvill's career highlight came in St. Louis. Because for Maxvill, St. Louis really is his home. He and his family make their home in Paddock Forest, a suburb in North St. Louis County.

Because he lives in St. Louis, coaching for Atlanta is doubly difficult.

on the road, he'll leave on an off-day and travel home to visit his family and then meet the team in time for the Braves' game.

Two of his sons, Jeff and Tim, who were in the Braves' dugout Tuesday during batting practice, have their own way of keeping in touch with their father. They admit they're avid fans of the Turner Broadcasting System, the parent company which may again soon again be on top of the world.

The Atlanta Braves, who are currently the winningest team in baseball, are steaming towards what may be its second NL West pennant in as many years. Leading the NL West Thursday by 2 games, Maxvill called the Braves a more experienced, confident team than it was last year.

"We're a more consistent, and more strategy oriented ball club than we were

"I'm doing just what I've always wanted to do. And coming back here makes it especially nice. The fans of St. Louis are the best in the world. They're gracious enough to forget the 0-4 games and remember only the good times."

Dal Maxvill

owns and televises many of Atlanta's games.

The broadcasts, Tim said, at least gives him the opportunity to see his father. A phone call takes care of the talking to him.

"It's kind of funny," Dal Maxvill said. "They'll be watching and then later when I talk to them I'll find out from them how we did. They usually let me know."

Despite the long stretches away from home, Maxvill is a happy man. And he has every right to be.

He's fulfilling a lifelong dream — a boyhood dream — of fame and fortune which included an illustrious playing career with the Cardinals, the Oakland A's during their heyday in the 1970's and a short stint with Pittsburgh. Now, Maxvill is capping his baseball career as a coach on a division leading major league baseball team.

"I'm doing just what I've always wanted to do," Maxvill said. "And coming back here makes it especially nice. The fans of St. Louis are the best in the world. They're gracious enough to forget the 0-4 games and remember only the good times."

Comparing his careers — playing and coaching — Maxvill left no doubt as to what he preferred. He enjoys coaching, he said, and it's the next best thing to competing, but it just isn't quite the same as competing.

"There's nothing quite like playing, last year. And now that we've been through it things should come easier."

Maxvill said to two reporters prior to Tuesday's game.

Assessing the Western Division race, Maxvill said he expects the Atlanta-Los Angeles matchup to be tight to the finish, noting each team has a series with the other before the end of the season.

Maxvill's first season with the Cardinals was 1962 when he came up from the Cardinals' Tulsa farm club. His .348 batting average in Tulsa dropped to .222 with the Cardinals by the end of the season.

In 1963, with 53 trips to the plate, Maxvill's average increased somewhat to .235, but his forte was his fielding average of .971.

The following year, 1964, began slow for Maxvill. And the Cardinals who, as it were to turn out, earned a berth into the World Series, sent the slumping Maxvill to its Jacksonville, Fla., farm club of the International League.

At the time, Maxvill seemed to be battling a "good field, no hit" label. The 5-foot-11 160-pounder had been playing in the shadow of Dick Groat and had made only spot appearances during the season.

Following the announcement of his "demotion," Maxvill began thinking of leaving baseball for a job in electrical engineering. He received his degree in January 1962 from Washington University and was a part-time faculty member at the college.

"At the time, my baseball career wasn't going too well. And the offers I received seemed pretty good," Maxvill said. "But I decided to stick with it."

And it's a good thing he did. Because like the Cardinals, Maxvill, too, had a date in the 1964 World Series.

Although to tell him that on May 8, 1964, the date he was sent to Jacksonville, Maxvill would have probably laughed out loud.

When the ban on player limits was lifted toward the end of the season, Maxvill and several others were called back to the parent club to finish out the season.

Maxvill had seen limited action until that Sunday when the Cardinals were scheduled to meet the New York Mets to determine the NL championship.

Part of his duties include a pre-game team meeting to discuss coaches signals, coaching athletes during batting practice and actually sharing in the batting practice pitching duties.

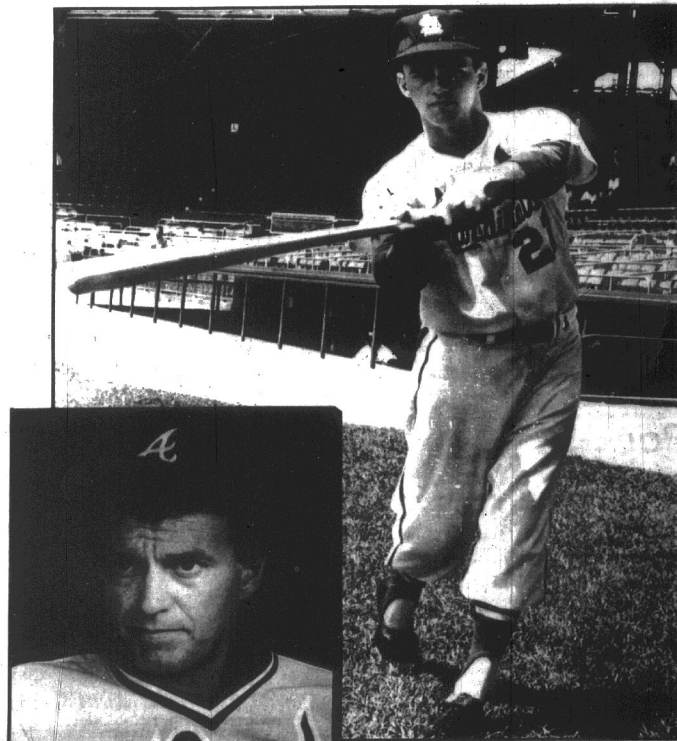

After a 15-year playing career that began in Winnipeg, Manitoba, which included five World Series and four World Series championships, Maxvill but anymore coaching is as close as I can get."

As third base coach, Maxvill's game duties include relaying the manager's signals to the baserunners. But, as was evident Tuesday and Wednesday evening, that's not all he does.

The Mets tied the game in the top half of the same inning when Charley Smith homered into Sportsman's Park's right field bleachers.

Of those teams, Maxvill recalled one that took him back to 1961, when he was 12 years old.

"I pitched and played shortstop for the Atomic Kids," Maxvill said with a smile. "My mom managed the team because all the fathers didn't have time. That was quite a team."

Maxvill went on to play two years of high school baseball before graduating in January 1957. A heart murmur kept him from competing quite extensively in high school, Maxvill said. His condition later corrected itself and it was at Washington University when he really began to resemble the Dal Maxvill of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Throughout college and even into his playing days with the Red Birds, Maxvill maintained his residence in Granite City. It wasn't until 1967 when he and his wife moved to Paddock Forest.

Over the years, Maxvill has seen professional baseball go through numerous changes.

The first, he mentioned, was AstroTurf. The second is salaries. In 1962, Maxvill's first year with the Cardinals, the basic salary, he said, was $7,000, much less than the six-figure digits offered to many players today.

The third change Maxvill cited is relief pitching. When he began, it was not uncommon for pitchers to go nine innings — win or lose.

"Nowadays," he said, "pitching is so specialized. You've got the Bruce Sutter's the Goose Gosage who only pitch in relief."

The former Cardinal great considers himself a lucky man. He spent 15 years playing professional baseball. During that time he's competed in five World Series, coming out on the winning end of four. His career has indeed been a fruitful one.

Along with his collection of World Series rings is a memory of a fishing trip with his boys to Lake Norfolk in Arkansas.

In October 1976, the fishing wasn't as good as it could've or should've been. Because the fish weren't biting, he and his boys decided to take a swim. That swim turned out to be very expensive for Maxvill.

His '64 World Series ring, his first and the one he wore most frequently, slipped off his finger and into the depths of Norfolk.

The ring may be gone, but the memories of that series and how he rose to the occasion will never slip away from Maxvill or the Granite City fans who love him.

A hometown boy who done alright.

Road trips are bad enough, but for Maxvill, even when the Braves play at home, he's still really not at home.

For eight months of the year, he rents a motel in Atlanta where he stays during baseball season.

Being separated from his wife, Diane, and family is eased somewhat by frequent trips to St. Louis, Maxvill said.

In addition to the two road trips to St. Louis that the Braves make each season, Maxvill makes several other trips back to St. Louis to visit his family.

Often, he said, when the Braves are

At Du Quoin State Fair Schrader eyes USAC membership

DU QUOIN — Ken Schrader hopes to become the eighth member of a most exclusive USAC racing fraternity when he visits the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds on Labor Day, Sept. 5.

Schrader, of Fenton, Mo., frequented Granite City's Tri-City Speedway.

A. J. Foyst is a member. So are Indianapolis 500 winners Mario Andretti, Bobby Unser and Parnelli Jones.

USAC Competition Director Roger McCluskey has earned membership, as have the late Eddie Sachs and Bobby Marshman.

Schrader, with a victory in the 198-mile USAC

Gold/Silver Crown Championship, Stock, Sprint and Midget competition during his career.

The membership is limited, since there is not a lot of driver interchange between open-wheeled and stock car competition.

The Du Quoin race will award precious USAC Gold Crown Championship Series points making it a full National Championship Series event, ranking right along with the Indianapolis 500 as part of the Gold Crown Series.

Schrader's career to date has included 12 victories in USAC Midget competition and a pair of USAC Sprint car wins, in addition to a 1981 USAC Stock car triumph at Tri-City Speedway.

He's currently leading the USAC Sprint car series, second in the Silver Crown series and fourth in the Midgets.

Venice asks its residents to report suspicious activities

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Assistance from the public in helping to curb the increased number of burglaries occurring in Venice within the last few weeks is being sought by Mayor Tyrone Echols and Police Chief Farris Smith.

The subject was discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Venice City Council, along with a statement by Fourth Ward Alderman Victor Valentine Sr., who placed residents in his ward on notice that citations will be issued to those persons whose property is a dumping ground for derelict vehicles and mounds of rubbish.

"The need for more help from the general public to help police catch burglars was instigated by a request from Third Ward Alderman John Ervin.

The alderman asked Chief Smith if squad cars could be assigned to patrol alleyways, especially in the 1100 blocks of Calhoun and Logan avenues, in addition to regular street patrols.

"What would help to curb it (rubbish of burglaries) is if people will call when they see something suspicious taking place," Mayor Echols commented.

"The police need to put their hands on them (burglars) and that would help considerably if residents will report suspicious looking things.

"If you see something going on call the police at 877-2114 and give them a chance to catch them," the mayor urged.

Callers are not identified and the only time a person reporting a crime in progress or a possible crime is asked for a name is to check the call's validity, Mayor Echols stressed.

Fourth Ward Alderman Charles Haynes Sr. also commented that persons who recognize a burglar should tell police. "I know people are afraid of reprisals, but their names are not used on the radio," Mayor Echols pointed out.

"Even if you don't want to give your name, call anyway and give the police a chance to catch them in the act," he urged.

A Neighborhood Watch or Crime Blocker program may be reintroduced in Venice to help reduce the number of burglaries, Chief Smith said after the council session.

Starting next month, Alderman Valentine will be touring the Fourth Ward, accompanied by the appropriate inspectors who will issue citations to occupants of dwellings where yards are littered with debris, including derelict vehicles, stacks of old wood and refrigerators with doors.

"I am serving notice. You have a whole month to get ready before the citations will be issued to individuals whose yards are not up to par," the alderman stated.

He noted some old cars standing in several yards have been there for two or three years and that rats are breeding in piles of old wood in other yards.

"There's a bad odor coming from some wood piles and debris in backyards and we intend to do something about it," Valentine said.

First Ward Alderman John Fleig reinforced Valentine's statement by noting that such conditions on property are punishable by fines under the city's refuse ordinance.

Fleig also stated that he had distributed some rat poison last week to residents.

"With the hot weather, the rats are getting into piles of rubbish to cool off and they'll soon be running all over town. We need the health inspectors to go out and see what's happening," he added.

Mayor Echols agreed with Fleig's comments, adding, "We'll soon be faced with the same problem as St. Louis, if something isn't done now. People have seen rats as big as cats in alleys."

First Ward Alderman Phillip Daniels suggested that health and building inspectors meet with the alderman prior to council sessions on a regular basis to discuss various problems in the community. The suggestion was approved.

Sewer district detachment hearing slated for Oct. 12

Morris Miles, member of the Madison County Board and chairman of its Special Sewer Committee, has announced that certain properties will be disconnected from the Madison County sewer district.

The disconnection will be accomplished by action of the Circuit Court, after a hearing which is scheduled for Oct. 12 at the courthouse in Edwardsville.

"No property can be disconnected except that which is not served by the Special Service Area and is not intended to be served. Any property owner in the district who believes that his property qualifies for disconnection may sign a petition at the sewer office, 301 E. Chain of Rocks Road," Miles said.

Owners must bring a copy of their most recent tax bill and the legal description of the property to be disconnected. The description will be on a deed, contract of sale, title insurance policy or abstract of title. Accurate legal descriptions must be furnished to the court, according to Miles.

Miles stated that the forms are made available to the taxpayers as a service by the Special Sewer Committee.

However, he added that any owner who wishes to be represented by his own lawyer could do so. Miles emphasized that no property will be disconnected except that to which sewers are not provided and for which there is no intention to provide sewers.

In 1981, the county board passed an ordinance which relieved certain property in the district of the tax liability. That ordinance will probably be repealed after the court acts, Miles stated that there is no assurance that any property will be disconnected from the district as the ultimate decision will be made by the court.

Other members of the Special Sewer Committee are Frank Dutko, Donald Rea, Roderick Bauder and Nick Hanlon.

Inquiries about the detachment proceeding may be made at the sewer district office. An interested citizen may participate at the hearing, Miles noted.

Custo filed a 60-page petition last week in the Madison County Circuit Court. The petition made criminal allegations against Weber, including theft, forgery and official misconduct.

Many of the allegations are repeats of accusations Custo made in January when he sent a letter to Madison County Board members, Chief Circuit Judge A.A. Matosian and the Disciplinary Commission about Weber.

Those charges were forwarded to Attorney General Neil Hartigan's office and eventually were dropped because state officials found no substance to the allegations.

Custo is a longtime political foe of Weber and has repeatedly attempted to have the state's attorney investigated during the last year. Two years ago, Weber obtained rape charges against Bruce Cook, a client of Custo's.

Cook was acquitted of the charges and Custo filed suit against Weber for malicious prosecution, arguing that the state's attorney knew that Cook was innocent when he started the prosecution.

That incident apparently has sparked the ongoing ill feelings between the two.

The latest set of allegations against Weber are based on information obtained by Custo from Marvin Darling, a former employee of Weber, who said he was fired for not contributing enough money to the state's attorney's election campaign.

Webster, however, says that Darling's pay was decreased because he wasn't doing his job. He says that Darling eventually quit.

The petition alleges that Virginia Rullison, an employee of the state's attorney's office described as Weber's girlfriend, took over Darling's job. It says that she was allowed vacation time and drew full-time pay, although she didn't show up for work very often.

Further, the petition cites various cases prosecuted by Weber, including that of Supervisor of Assessments James Barton. Charges of official misconduct, bribery and conspiracy were dropped against Barton because of "prosecutorial misconduct."

Associate Judge Edward Ferguson ruled that public statements made by Weber about the case tainted Barton's right to a fair trial.

The petition also deals with Weber's prosecution of former Collinsville Attorney Urban. Urban was sentenced to three years in prison for theft of more than $140,000 in bond money.

Urban was accused of posing as the defense attorney representing truckers charged with having overweight trucks. He allegedly forged signatures of prosecutors to get bond money released after using dismissal orders for the cases.

Urban supposedly contributed money to Weber's campaign, according to the petition. The petition alleges that Weber covered up his financial business with Urban during the course of the trial.

Those charges also were investigated previously and dropped by the state Elections Board.

Further, the petition claims that Weber worked a deal to dismiss charges against a Madison man and that he fixed his own ticket driving under the influence of alcohol after he was arrested in Marine. The petition uses information from a Marine police officer and from a resident who says that Weber walked the streets in only shorts and shower shoes while carrying a gun.

Weber, who is on vacation, has repeatedly denied all of the allegations made by Custo.

There are no charges against Weber in the district who believes that his property should be disconnected from the sewer service area. The hearing will be Oct. 12 at 10 a.m.

Owners must bring a copy of their most recent tax bill and the legal description of the property they wish to be disconnected. The description will be on a deed, contract of sale, title insurance policy or abstract of title. Accurate legal descriptions must be furnished to the court, Miles said.

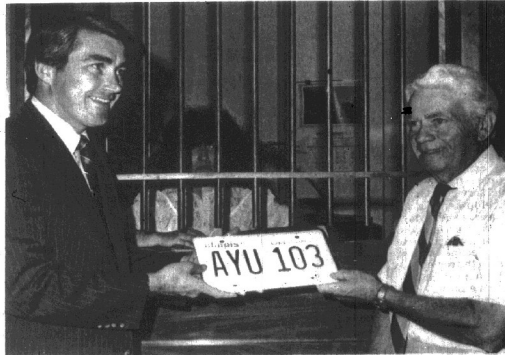

He said that forms for disconnection proceedings will be furnished to taxpayers as a service by the special sewer committees. Residents may, however, use their own legal representation.

One property within the district that does not presently have, nor will have to, the foreseeable future county sewer service will be considered for disconnection, he said.

There is, however, no guarantee that any property will be disconnected from the taxing district, because the ultimate decision will be made by a judge, Miles said.

In 1981, the county board passed an ordinance which relieved certain property in the district of its tax liability. The state legislature also has passed a law allowing for disconnection of 15 percent of property within the special service area.

Any interested resident may participate at the hearing. Residents seeking disconnection have been urged to attend, officials said. Inquiries about the proceeding may be made at the sewer district office.

NEW LICENSE PLATES Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar, left, helps sell Ogden Perkins of Springfield one of the first sets of the new Illinois license plates to be issued to the public. The new license plates, the first to be manufactured in the state in a decade, will be issued to all Illinois automobile owners during the next three years. New registrations will receive new plates this year. Licenses beginning with a number will receive new plates in 1984. Plates starting with the letters A through M will receive new plates in 1985 and licenses starting with N through Z will be issued new plates in 1986.

Belleville lawyer seeks investigation of Weber

Belleville lawyer Amel Custo has again asked that a special prosecutor be appointed to investigate allegations against Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber.

Custo filed a 60-page petition last week in the Madison County Circuit Court. The petition made criminal allegations against Weber, including theft, forgery and official misconduct.

Many of the allegations are repeats of accusations Custo made in January when he sent a letter to Madison County Board members, Chief Circuit Judge A.A. Matosian and the Disciplinary Commission about Weber.

Sewer disconnection hearing

A hearing has been scheduled in the Third Circuit Court in Edwardsville to consider disconnection of residents in the county sewer service area. The hearing will be Oct. 12 at 10 a.m.

Commentary

No lack of development groups

(The following commentary is from Karl Monroe's "As I See It" column in the Collinsville Herald.)

At his first official meeting as president of Lewis and Clark Community College at Godfrey, J. Neil Admire proposed establishing a joint business-industry-labor special service area.

Development organizations seem to be springing up all around us lately. Sadly, they are reaction to the steady decline of heavy industry in the region.

We have had the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission for 20 years. It has done a lot of good things, among others, providing a solid data base.

More recently, Target 2000 was set up in East St. Louis to try to help the hard-pressed city revive, and it has started the slow process of turning things around there.

A couple of years ago,

SIEU president Earl Lazarson announced the formation of the Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council, with himself as chairman and Carl Mathias of Illinois Power Company as president. Robert Koepke of SIEU is heading its efforts.

Koepke previously did studies, brochures and maps for Illinois Metro-East, the development group fostered by Illinois Power Company.

He has been active in preparing maps and analyses of available industrial sites in the region.

Now there are three sub-regional development promotion groups working. Based in Godfrey is the River Bend Development Corporation.

More recently, the Growth Triangle, Edwardsville-Troy-Maryville-Glen Carbon-Collinsville, has organized with Bill Schreck of Illinois Power as president.

The latest development group is the Southwestern Illinois Corridor Development Corporation. It is headed by Mayor Gary Mackey of O'Fallon.

All three of the colleges that serve the region are into development knee-deep. Based at Belleville Area College is the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, with Mark Spizza as Southwestern Illinois director.

SIEU and the current interest of Lewis and Clark Community College have already been mentioned.

With all these developments, something good should be happening, and indeed some things are happening.

Among them are the steady growth of the Tri-City Port Authority facilities at Granite City, announcement that A.O. Smith will return to Granite City, the ITRR terminal and Heldman Steel's start on a plant to process steel, mostly from Granite City Steel.

It will cost $7 million and will, when completed, employ 100. The city of Granite City authorized up to $10 million of tax-free industrial revenue bonds for it.

The governmental entities around here have been completely cooperative in giving tax-free bond power to help development.

And all over the region, non-industrial development has picked up, as typified by the Collinsville motel-hotel strip.

And sitting as a super-umbrella over all the development organizations is the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

It views growth as a regional whole. If any part is helped, all benefit, in that view.

The battle over the second airport at Columbia-Waterloo still rumbles many east-siders. They wonder, as they share their prospect lists and efforts with RCGA, if the west side power structure is being equally candid and cooperative.

There is a great deal that can be done cooperatively. The multiplication of development efforts attests to faith that progress can be fostered.

Most of the efforts seem aimed at enticing industry to relocate in the region. Another fertile soil that needs to be plowed is retraining. Currently, many are out of work, laid off from jobs that have disappeared.

The three colleges are being asked to do the job. A first start is a $440,000 state grant award for a dislocated worker program.

We view retraining as a permanent program. In the age of super-fast obsolescence, many workers will have to retrain several times in a working lifetime. Training and the evaluation and counseling that goes with it, will be an ongoing thing.

That is one thing that the mushrooming development agencies will need to look at.

Park improvements for Cahokia Mounds

Fifty-three state parks, recreation areas, historic sites and conservation areas are sharing in a $1.2 million federal allocation available under the U.S. Small Business Administration's new Park and Recreational Area Development Grant Program.

According to Conservation Department Associate Director John Comerio, the funds are being used at the sites for tree, shrub and ground cover plantings.

Costs for the individual projects range between $2,400 and $79,000.

Comerio said the Small Business Administration Park and Recreational Area Development Grant Program was established to help rehabilitate and improve public lands while providing the nation's small businesses with work opportunities that will have lasting public benefit. The program, administered nationally by the Department of Conservation, was contained in a federal jobs bill signed last spring.

Sixteen contractors throughout the state were successful bidders for the park beautification and improvement contracts, let through the Illinois Capital

APARTMENTS LOOTED
Two burglaries occurred at 1304 Nineteenth St. last week. A $300 cassette stereo with two speakers and a $79 portable television set were taken from the apartment of Retha Owings. At the apartment of Richard Waeltermann, an intruder pried a door lock open.

WINDOW DAMAGED AT BURGER KING

A hole in a plate glass window at Burger King, 3406 Nameoki Road, believed to have been caused by a shot from a BB gun, was reported last week by an employee of the business.

HOME BURGLARIZED

Felicia Mosley, of the 1000 block of Market Street, Venice, reported last week that her home was burglarized. Taken were a window air conditioning unit and a black and white TV.

GAS GRILL GONE

A double-size portable gas grill and tank, valued at $210, were stolen from the garage area at the home of Robert Garin, 14 Del Rio Drive, he reported early this week.

Measure signed to promote beef

Governor James R. Thompson has approved legislation that will develop a comprehensive marketing program for Illinois beef producers, a plan that will promote the Illinois beef industry.

"This measure is intended to promote the growth of the cattle industry and to develop and expand markets for Illinois beef," said the governor. "This is a self-help plan that will give beef producers in Illinois the opportunity to fund a beef marketing program, independent panel that will coordinate marketing efforts on their behalf."

"While other, similar programs are in operation for various parts of the state's agriculture industry, this program will be established, governed and financed entirely by the beef industry," he said during bill signing ceremonies at the grand Champion Auction at the Illinois State Fair Coliseum.

The bill, Senate Bill 655, creates the Illinois Beef Council, a 14-member panel that will develop and coordinate a beef marketing plan by using funds from a levy imposed on Illinois beef producers. State beef producers will hold a referendum on the marketing plan six months from the day the legislation takes effect, which was last Wednesday, Aug. 17. If a majority of beef producers vote in favor of the additional levy, funding for the plan will come from that source.

According to the measure, beef producers will select two Beef Council members from each of the seven districts in Illinois. The Illinois Beef Industry Council will serve as a temporary ruling body until then.

The bill calls for a maximum of 50 cents per head of cattle to be paid by beef producers if they approve the program, an amount that could generate $500,000, the governor said. However, producers will have the ability to ask for a refund if they don't wish to participate in the program.

The bill in the legislature was approved unanimously.

In other action, the governor said he has signed a package of legislation that eases the regulatory burden for the Soybean, Apple and Peach Marketing Boards. Under SB 471, 472 and 473, the marketing program drafted by each board is exempt from review by the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules.

Thompson also said he signed House Bill 872, which gives county highway commissioners and superintendents the authority to allow cropdusters to use certain county highways or township roads. The bill is aimed at saving money and time for cropdusters by eliminating the need to return to the nearest airport for refueling and loading chemicals.

Under the measure, cropdusters can use rural roads that have an average daily traffic count of less than 200 vehicles. Traffic on those roads cannot be blocked for more than 15 minutes every half hour and emergency vehicles cannot be blocked. It takes effect immediately.

BOYS, 8, INVOLVED IN POUND BREAK-IN
Two 8-year-old Venice boys apparently were involved in a burglary at the Venice dog pound in which a white German Shepherd and a boxer dog were taken and two other animals were released. It was reported during the week that the pair allegedly told officers they were passing by the pound when they decided to get the two animals. They climbed the pound fence and knocked off a lock securing the property with a hammer.

One boy tied a rope around the boxer, while the other boy used his belt to lead out the German Shepherd, police learned. A small brown and white dog and a poodle were released from custody at the same time, reports said.

State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, (D-Edwardsville) has been named legislative chairman for the Madison-Bond County Council of the American Legion. The appointment was made by Council Commander Arthur J. Lindsey of Wood River.

"This responsibility has a special urgency for me," Vadalabene said in accepting the post. "Presently I am actively engaged in my work as chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee in the Illinois Senate, on behalf of all Illinois veterans."

"But there are many other matters of pressing importance to veterans and the national defense that are vital concerns of the American Legion and many of the objectives can be addressed at the state level. I intend to do my best to insure that whatever can be done is done," Sen. Vadalabene concluded.

Openings in child development group

The East St. Louis Child Development Program of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville continues to provide day care services to area residents and children are being sought to fill the program, according to Barbara Epps, program director.

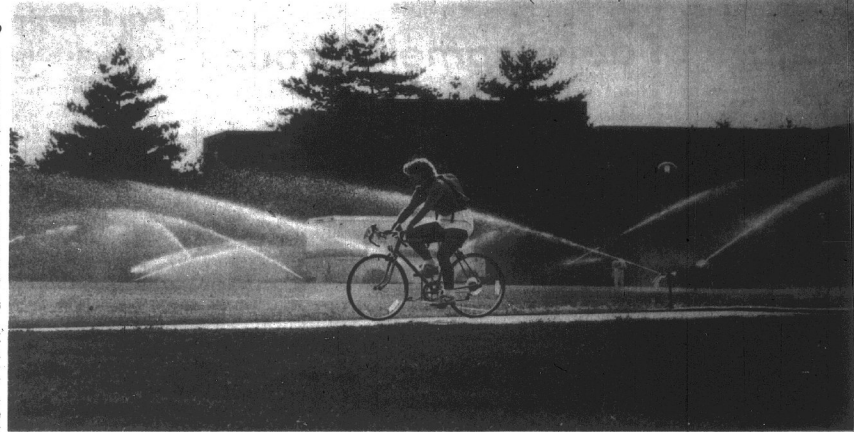

There still are spaces available for children of parents who meet the program's guidelines. Mrs. Epps said The Child Development Program operates two day care centers for children ages 2 to 6 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the East St. Louis Center of SIUE, 411 East Broadway, and St. Paul Church, 1500 Bond Ave.

Guidelines require that parents of children be either employed, participating in a job training program or attending an academic institution. Mrs. Epps said:

She explained that the day care centers provide a wide variety of activities that promote the physical, social, emotional and intellectual development of children. Free and reduced-price meals are provided for children, based on their parents' ability to pay.

There may or may not be a fee for the program, dependent on the parents' income and size of family, Mrs. Epps concluded.

For more information, interested persons may contact the SIUE East St. Louis Child Development Program at 271-3000 extension 43 or 44, or visit the East St. Louis Center, Room 3060.

Governor amends tax on gasohol

Governor James R. Thompson has signed, with changes, legislation that will encourage the use of gasohol in Illinois by reducing the state sales tax on the fuel.

"This bill will continue the state's commitment to making gasohol an attractive substitute for gasoline. This is vital to Illinois because gasohol represents a major market for Illinois corn, which is good for our farmers, while at the same time reducing pollution from an auto emissions by making car engines more efficient. It also is a step toward reducing our dependence on foreign oil. We are the leading state in the nation in the production of ethanol for gasohol. That is something we are very proud of in this state and we plan to continue our leadership," Thompson said.

Gasohol is a motor fuel containing at least 10 percent alcohol obtained from agricultural products or byproducts. The Illinois Farm Bureau estimates that one-twelfth of the Illinois corn crop is sold to ethanol producers. Illinois produces 640 million gallons of the ethanol in the nation, with 85 percent exported to other states.

Governor Thompson signed legislation in the past taking the state sales tax off gasohol and then slowly phasing in the tax one percent a year. That phase-in process has restored two cents of the four-cent state sales tax. The exemption-phase-in plan was instituted at the time because it was anticipated that oil prices could climb over time, making gasohol more competitive with conventional gasoline.

However, oil prices have declined while corn prices have increased, making the production of gasohol less economical. This measure will help restore economic incentives for using gasohol.

As passed by the General Assembly, Senate Bill 149 removes all sales taxes on gasohol effective immediately until Dec. 31, 1992. The Governor made changes in the language through his amendatory veto powers.

Fin's original bill removes state and local sales taxes. By removing the one percent local sales tax, the state would be responsible for reimbursing local governments about $5 million for the loss of that sales tax revenue under the state Mandates Act. The General Assembly did not approve money for reimbursement to the local governments. The Governor changed the language so that gasohol is exempt only from the current level of state sales taxes.

Second, the bill was intended to exempt gasohol from a four percent state sales tax. However, as written it also would exempt gasohol from the one percent increase in sales tax, which takes effect Jan. 1, 1984. The Governor said this would deprive the state of more tax revenue than is necessary to provide an effective incentive for gasohol consumption. His change specifically provides for a four percent state sales tax exemption.

The measure, which does not affect Motor Fuel Tax collections, now returns to the General Assembly for its consideration of the governor's changes.

Human side of school dispute

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Controversies like the one in the Granite City school district involve many facts and figures, and also the human side.

Teachers with up to 12 or 13 years of service in District Nine—now honorably dismissed, but dismissed nevertheless—face possibly bleak futures (either in or out of the field of education) unless recalled.

Some wonder whether they should have recall rights for as long a time as they worked in the school district.

Illinois statutes call for rehiring rights of at least one year. Local 743 wants three-year rights; a two-year period has been offered by the district.

Reasons for differing accounts of the bargaining, which takes place privately, include the fact that some proposals are "placed on the table" if part of a settlement, but are then withdrawn if the other side fails to alter its position in a corresponding fashion.

But some of the details are being brought out; both sides went public to a degree this week—the local on Monday and the district last night.

Regardless of how far either side would go in class size and backlogs, it seems clear that considerable numbers of faculty members face serious career problems. At least 100 and possibly 129 are affected by the problem.

Whether it is the fault of financial planners, families, employers, federal officials or whoever, there are fewer families, fewer families of any size, and less children requiring the services of a teacher.

The recession-related economic squeeze on the school system also has prompted a larger average class size than last year.

If there are no students or few students who need him or her, a teacher can bargain collectively through Local 743 in an effort to be rehired, or can hope that attrition or enrollment growth will result in a recall before the recall period is over.

Lacking this, a teacher may take a look at the salary schedule and conclude that difficult times are ahead for the individual dismissed employee.

Most schedules give added pay for additional years of teaching experience and for extra degrees or college credit hours.

Once recall is no longer assured, it is uncertain whether District Nine or any other district would hire a new college graduate at low pay or, instead, select a veteran teacher at higher pay.

Considerations include not only the budget impact of a hiring decision but also realization that no entity can function well unless an infusion of younger personnel takes place as the years go by.

If all the teachers grow old and retire, with little or no new hiring, school systems will face a "day of reckoning" when there is almost entirely inexperienced faculty, if a faculty can be found.

Lack of bright job opportunities in one's chosen field can prompt an effort, of course, to enter a related vocation or even embark on an entirely new career.

But this is not always possible, without a big monetary sacrifice.

And the individual starts the race late, with part of his working life already having been devoted to another type of job.

Successful career shifts are not impossible, or even unusual. But they are far from easy to accomplish for many people.

This may be part of the reason why Granite City teachers are fighting so hard to force additional hiring.

School officials say they will do the right thing after seeing how many youngsters actually report for classes.

They can transfer within a building, or within the district, and can rehired enough teachers to make sure that no classroom and no instructor has an empty seat.

But the teacher union is taking the position that additional callbacks ought to be guaranteed in advance of the first day that students report for classes.

Administrators who devise cost reduction proposals last spring say these cuts could be negated by spending money that does not exist to hire teachers no longer needed.

Their side of the human story is that they are responsible for sensibly administering a school system and that they have no right, legal or ethical, to spend dollars that are unavailable.

The human side, from board members' viewpoint, is that they would like to please everybody, but cannot do so and simultaneously measure up to their official duties.

As some members see it, they have reacted generously in past years and deserve a cessation of pressure. But even though they have presided over a financial slide that has brought a negative "unreserved fund balance" of $7,954,966, the pressure for a costlier control settlement (which has been offered) is unrelenting.

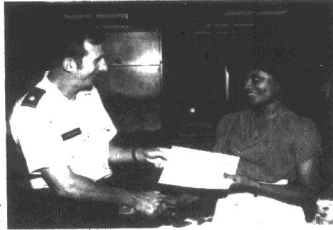

Despite these concerns facing administrators and board members, the challenge to dismissed teachers remains acute. Many of them must quickly decide how to spend the rest of their lives, perhaps outside of their chosen profession.

Venice receives OK on housing rehab funds

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
of the Press-Record

The city of Venice will receive $23,500 in Community Development funds for housing rehabilitation and demolition, Mayor Tyrone Echols reported to aldermen at Tuesday night's meeting of the Venice City Council.

Approval of the Venice allocation from the $350,000 CD funds available was announced by Cheryl Joutet, program administrator for the Madison County Community Development agency in Edwardsville.

A total of $835,000 was requested by Madison County communities from the $350,000 available. Mrs. Joutet noted. She added the Madison County Community Development Committee at its Aug. 15 distribution meeting felt that all communities that asked for funds should be given a portion of the dollars they had requested.

"It is unfortunate that cuts had to be made, as this is such a critical need throughout the county," Mrs. Joutet commented in a letter to Mayor Echols.

At an earlier meeting, Venice aldermen agreed to seek $100,000 in housing funds for rehabilitation and demolition projects.

In addition to Venice, other communities whose requests for housing funds were approved are:

City of Madison, $27,500; Venice Township and Eagle Park, $25,000; Chouteau Township, $25,000; Nantou Township, $25,000; Pontoon Beach, $12,500; Edwardsville Township, $50,000; Alton, $30,000; Wood River Township, $37,500; Hartford, $35,000; Wood River Township—Forest Homes Cottage Hills, $25,000; and Hevelia Township, $30,000.

Mayor Echols said officials "still are haggling" over the issue of federal aid changes that would eliminate Madison County as a direct recipient of Community Development.

The changes made by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) are slated to become effective in October, 1983.

Under the new regulations, the county would no longer qualify for the Community Development funds.

Townships also would lose their chance to receive such monies and cities, such as Granite City and Alton, would become entitlement cities, making them direct recipients of annual Community Development grants and responsible for handling their own administration of funds.

"Little cities like Venice would be thrown into the pot to fight for the funds," in competition with municipalities of similar size across the state, Mayor Echols commented.

"We've been asked to send letters to U.S. Senator (Charles) Percy and other Congressional leaders protesting the changes," the mayor advised the aldermen.

Mayor Echols also reported a preconstruction conference on the Klein Street repair and resurfacing project has been set for 9 a.m. Aug. 30 in the Illinois Department of Transportation's Division of Highways office at Fairview Heights.

Venice city officials were invited to attend the conference, at which representatives of the contractor and IDOT would discuss the project, according to Dale L. Klob, district engineer.

Klein Street sustained severe damage when used as a state bypass route to the McKinley Bridge and Illinois Route 3 during the eight-month closing of the Venice underpass on Broadway.

NEW RECRUIT

Stephen Candler, son of Mrs. and Mr. Robert Candler of Granite City, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's delayed enlistment program on May 12. He is scheduled for training to begin in October and after basic training will receive technical training in the general aptitude area.

The 1982 graduate of South High School, he will earn credits toward a two-year Associate in Applied Science Degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other technical training schools.

The planning committee for the 1983 graduation class of Madison High School are in the process of planning a reunion of classmates in November.

Any member of the class interested in the project can call 451-8012, according to the chairman.

New pacts with Youth Services

The Granite City school district has approved two 1983-84 contracts with Coordinated Youth Services of Granite City, covering continued CYS operation of the alternative school and the anti-truancy program.

Students attend the alternative instruction at CYS when, for a variety of reasons, they are not assigned to a school building.

Overall cost of the alternative school will be $81,693, but there is a $45,000 state reimbursement and a $28,875 federal reimbursement.

Special Education Director Steve Baken said, Of the remaining $7,818 cost, plans call for $6,396 to be paid by Granite City District Nine, $947 by Madison District 12 and $473 by Venice District Three.

The projected enrollment of 165 consists of 135 students from Granite City, 20 from Madison and 10 from Venice.

The budget provides $40,000 for four teachers certified for special education, $15,679 for a certified school psychologist, $12,543 for a certified school social worker, $8,158 for administrative costs and $4,633 for a half-time secretary.

The expenses are similar to those in 1982-83, Granite City Supt. B.J. Davis said.

The cost of the District Nine attendance program is expected to drop from $16,800 last year to a net of $10,353 in 1983-84, James DuMont, administrative assistant for secondary services, related.

There was no special education reimbursement in 1982-83. The new $16,603 cost is to be lowered by a $6,250 reimbursement.

A telephone line for the attendance program will cost $500 and supplies will approximate $300, with no charges made for the administrative, counseling and social work supportive staff.

Personnel expenses of $15,803 will include $9,000 for a full-time worker, $4,100 for a half-time secretary, $1,703 for Social Security, workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation, and $1,000 for mileage.

Crossing guard cost discussed

The cost of maintaining guards at busy intersections where there are student crossings has been discussed briefly by the Granite City Board of Education, with no immediate action taken.

Present law has been interpreted as not allowing school districts to participate financially in employing crossing guards within city limits. A proposed change in the law has been forwarded to the governor for his consideration.

A letter from John T. Bapa, city attorney, to William W. Schooley, school attorney, said that "during the discussions which preceded the adoption of the most recent appropriations ordinance for the City of Granite City, the City Council instructed me to inquire of you the school district's position on the funding of school crossing guards."

"Granite City's City Council generally felt that the guards directly benefit the school district, and that the responsibility for paying for this crossing protection should be borne by the district."

"Please contact your client and see if there is any interest in entering into an agreement with the city to fund, in whole or in part, the costs of school crossing guards within the city."

TRIP SATURDAY TO ROCKMERE GARDENS

Two buses will leave at 8 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 27, for a day's outing to Rockmere Gardens in Arcoia, Ill., the Granite City Park District has announced.

The buses will depart from the Wilson Park Ice Rink parking area and return to the same location about 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Telephone service will be available for those wishing to call for rides upon returning to Wilson Park, a district spokesman advised.

APA has second board meeting

The Granite City chapter of the Association for the Protection of Animals recently conducted its second annual board of directors meeting at Charlie's Restaurant.

Speaker for the evening was Dennis Bozay, who gave a slide presentation of pictures he took while traveling with Marlin Perkins in Africa.

JoAnn Hommert and Carolyn Willoughby, co-presidents of the organization, told guests the history of the APA and informed them of the remaining work to be done on the shelter located on Old Alton Road.

Linda Irwin spoke about fund-raising projects, which the group hopes will raise enough money to allow the shelter to open this fall, as scheduled.

Members of the APA board are Robert Abell, Richard Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Edwards, Norman Hall, Thomas Hildebrand, Dr. Leland Holt, Randall Irwin, Mary Nowicki, David L.S. Reed, David Schermer, E.M. Schreeder, Irvin Slat and the Rev. Chris Zachary.

Persons interested in obtaining more information about the APA may write Post Office Box 1311, Granite City, Ill., 62040, or call 877-4954 in the evenings.

A.O. Smith granted $10 million in bonds

A.O. Smith Corp. was granted the right Tuesday night to sell up to $10 million in tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds to assist in the reopening of the Granite City automotive frame plant.

Leo Konzen, representing the firm, made the final request for the bonds at the Granite City Council meeting Tuesday.

The plant had first asked the city to sanction the bonds last April, but delays in financing procedures moved back the bond plans.

According to Konzen, the plant expects to sell the bonds to the Home Insurance Co. by Aug. 30.

The attorney submitted a signed opinion that the city will not be financially liable for the bonds in the event the firm cannot meet its bond obligation.

The aldermen unanimously agreed to the A.O. Smith bond issue.

A.O. Smith expects to be in
